State's Attorney Unable to Fathom Secrecy That
Shrouds Shooting

Herrin, Ill.—(AP)—Herrin was again under military control Wednesday as official machinery was put in motion to investigate this city's latest renewal of Klan-anti-Klan factional strife which Tuesday at the municipal election resulted in the death of six and injury of more than a score of persons.

The bodies of the six men lie in undertaking parlors here Wednesday and an inquest was expected to be held Wednesday morning, arrangements having already been made to ward embalming a coroner's jury. Coroner George Bell of Marion arrived Tuesday night with State's Attorney Arlie Boswell and conferred with Lieut. Colonel Davis in charge of the situation, and after that only known eye witness to the shootings, from whom they obtained a resume of the day's disorders.

The dead are: Aub Treadway, 28, Harrisburg; Charles Briggs, alias "Brown," 30, East St. Louis; Mack Sizemore, 34, Alderman, and his brother, Ben Sizemore, 32, also of Alderman; Harlan Ford, 40, brother of John Ford, former chief of police and deputy circuit clerk, and Noble Weaver, 32, West Frankfort.

Three of the men, the Sizemore brothers, and Ford are Klansmen, while the others are anti-Klan.

SHOOTINGS FOLLOW QUARREL

The shootings are believed to have been instigated as the result of an episode Tuesday morning when John Smith, garage proprietor, and Klan leader, was accosted by a man, later identified as "Blackie" Arms at about 2:30 A. M. The men conversed for a few moments and Arms searched Smith, removing two runs from his pockets. He then took a gun from his over pocket and struck Smith across the face, the latter said.

Smith in a statement declared that he then ran into his garage close by, followed by his brother-in-law, Eugene Vincent, and two other men, who have not been identified. The shooting began then, and the Klansmen members of his party barricaded themselves in the garage.

More than 500 shots were fired from both within and outside the garage it is reported, and scores of cars, passing the garage slowed up as they passed to fire shots in to the structure. The shooting continued for some time, and the men were also shot. The shooting finally subsided and the men emerged from the garage. Smith was the only person injured, a bullet having grazed his neck.

Following this episode, a call was sent in for the Illinois national guard contingent at Carbondale. The feeling, after the first shooting became intense and late in the afternoon about 4:20, the battle was renewed.

Smith said that he and 10 other Klansmen were engaged in a conversation outside the Masonic Temple, also 10 in number, pulled up to the curb. One of the men got out of the car and started to search him, ordering him to hold up his hands. After searching him, all of the men emerged from the automobiles and started firing at those standing on the sidewalk outside the Masonic Temple. The Klansmen returned the fire and within a few minutes five of the men had been fatally injured and a sixth killed. The dead man was brought to a morgue while the others were taken to the hospital where they died later. Just before expiring Ben Sizemore said he was positive that he had killed one of the anti-Klansmen.

SECURITY APPARENT

Secrecy enshrouds the entire affair and State's Attorney Boswell has been unable to learn the names of other who participated in the affair. Only one arrest was made, that of "Blackie" Arms, but he was released later after identifying himself as a deputy sheriff from Marion. He was arrested originally charged with speeding.

Madison —(AP)— Judge A. C. Hoppmann Wednesday morning sentenced Rudolph Jessner to life imprisonment at Waupun following his conviction on the charge of murder in the first degree last week for the murder of Patrolman Thompson.

Judge Hoppmann denied the motion of the attorneys for the defense for a new trial and sentence was immediately imposed.

SMITH BEATS

SENATE RACEIllinois Republicans Nominate World Court Foe in State Primary

Chicago —(AP)— Col. Frank Smith, foe of the world court, has been nominated by Illinois Republicans as their senatorial candidate over Senator William B. McKinley, who voted for the measure in the senate.

He will be opposed in the November election by George E. Brennan, Democrat chieftain and an avowed wet, who outdistanced his two rivals by an overwhelming vote.

Senator McKinley's vote for American adherence to the court was made the chief issue of Col. Smith's campaign and the latter's aides attribute his victory to his stand against the measure.

Senators Reed, Borah and Shipstead, all foes of the court, opened their campaigns in Illinois.

With Col. Smith who is chairman of the Republican State Central committee attacked Senator McKinley on the question in all his campaign speeches. The latter returned to Illinois from Washington to defend his vote on the ground of party regularity and in support of President Coolidge.

The state wide primary Tuesday, which was marked by the death of six persons in riots in Herrin, Ill., and by considerable shooting and disorder in Chicago saw victory for a boxing bill in this city and in several downstate municipalities. Chicago also approved bond issues totaling nearly $20,000,000.

Incomplete returns indicated the defeat of Mrs. Bertha Baur, northside society woman, who opposed Mrs. A. Britten, for the Republican nomination for congress in a fight in which each vied to tell which was the wetter. With more than half of the precincts of the state counted early Wednesday Colonel Smith was leading his opponent by 69,745 votes. The 3,968 precincts then tallied gave Smith 394,371 and McKinley 324,629.

In the latest tabulation Brennan had polled 108,817 votes against 15,364 for James T. McDermott, Chicago in his narrow competitor.

Nominees for congressman at large were Richard Yates and John Rathbone, Republican incumbents, and Charles A. Karch, East St. Louis, and Frank J. Wise, Joliet, Democrats. Representative Yates and Rathbone had four opponents, but outdistanced them by better than 2 to 1.

Colonel Smith, who is chairman of the state commerce commission was born in Dwight, Ill., his present residence, on Nov. 21, 1867.

WETS DELIVER
LAST BLOWS AT
DRY HEARINGGovernor Ritchie Hammers
Sargent's Criticisms Against Law Criticism

Washington, D. C.—(AP)— Assistant Secretary Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief, was recalled by the vote Wednesday to give further testimony at the senate prohibition hearing in the light of other evidence they have put into the record in the last week.

The enforcement field marshal was the first witness called by the wets. More than a week ago, and since then a number of others have described moral civic and social conditions as deplorable and urged modification or repeal of the Volstead act as a remedy. Several more witnesses will be heard after Mr. Andrews' reappearance and then the hearing will be turned over to the dries probably Friday, for the presentation of their testimony against liberalization of the act.

The wets had six and a half of their allotted hours left at the end of Tuesday's hearing, and the dries will have a clear field for 22 hours after they conclude.

Many of the women prohibition advocates who opened the dries' case before the Senate Monday left for home Wednesday, having wound up the annual conference of the women's national committee for law enforcement Tuesday after hearing appeals by Attorney Sargent and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases, that they use their influence to bring about better observance of the dry law by officials and social leaders.

The contention of some prohibitionists that opposition to the dry law is in a category with treason was answered Tuesday night by Governor Ritchie of Maryland in a Jefferson League dinner address. His declaration on prohibition was followed by applause which continued more than a minute.

Speaking on Jeffersonian Ideas of Freedom and Tolerance, and emphasizing the bill of rights, he challenged the right of any one to "abridge my freedom of speech against a law I oppose and my right to petition my government for a redress of the grievances I believe are caused by it."

The dinner, commemorating the 182d birthday of Jefferson, was announced by the league as non-partisan, and was attended by both Democrats and Republicans. Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, acted as host.

MUST QUIT GAS
DISCOUNT PLANCommissioner of Markets Instructs Companies to Drop Practice

Madison —(AP)— The practice of granting quantity discounts to users of large amounts of gasoline will be discontinued in Wisconsin with the expiration of the contracts now in force.

Officials of the Standard Oil Company (Ind.) agreed at a conference with Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets and Attorney General J. Elern Wednesday to comply with instructions of the commission, recommended by the attorney general that the practice cease. Commissioner Nordman also announced he would promulgate an order, effective June 1, exempting tank wagons from the posting of gasoline prices.

The attorney general recommended that the oil companies be instructed to furnish a list of their outstanding contracts with the dates of expiration and that in the absence of a specific expiration date, the contract shall expire one year from the time of its beginning.

The acquiescence of the companies in the request is relied upon to make the issuance of a formal order unnecessary. Meanwhile the hearing on a proposed order prohibiting the quantity discounts would be adjourned for 30 days. The attorney general also recommended that a previous gasoline price publicity order of the department of market be amended to omit the requirement for posting prices on tank wagons.

Brookhart To Raise Havoc
With Republicans In WestBY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1926 Post Pub. Co.
Washington — The political revolt in the west may be said to start with the decision of the senate to seat Daniel Steck in place of Smith W. Brookhart as the senator from Iowa. A majority of the Democrats voting with a large number of regular Republicans did it but the regular Republicans probably will pay the bill.

For irrespective of the merits of the election contest, the political implications of what the Republicans have done will not be lost on the friends of the insurgent Republicans. The so-called progressive group in the senate voted to a man with Mr. Brookhart. This is because the question of intent of the voters can be seriously construed. The vital problem, however, is that Mr. Steck was seated in the senate exactly by the same coalition whereby he received such a large vote in Iowa. A Democrat almost never wins any national election in Iowa. But the regular Republicans, antagonized because Senator Brookhart deserted President Coolidge for the late Senator LaFollette in the 1924 campaign, swung their votes to Mr. Steck. This plus Democratic vote gave him the opportunity to come up even with Mr. Brookhart at the polls.

What happened in the senate, however, is not in itself as important so far as an extra seat for the Democrats is concerned because they still are far from the majority. But it is politically important. For Mr. Brookhart, now will enter the primaries against Senator Cummins and besides the usual assortment of issues he will have the cry that he was deprived of a seat, he claims was rightfully obtained. The division among the regular Republicans will make it difficult for Mr. Brookhart to denounce the conservatives in his own party as responsible for his defeat on the senate vote. That is to be sure Senator Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee and intimate friend of Mr. Coolidge, voted for Mr. Steck. This will mean that Mr. Brookhart will have to come out definitely against Mr. Coolidge and seek support from some of the Democrats in Iowa who voted for Mr. Steck as a matter of course or he will have to wage his campaign with the idea of corraling regular Republican votes. It isn't natural for Mr. Brookhart to swing toward the conservative side so it may be expected that he will fight the regulars, Mr. Coolidge and the western management of the Republican party and make a campaign for the Des Moines agricultural conservation plan of farm relief which is most certain to be disapproved by Mr. Coolidge if it gets to him. Mr. Brookhart is counted upon by many Republicans and not a few Democratic politicians to defeat Mr. Cummins in the primary but whether history will repeat itself and he will be beaten again by a coalition of Republican and Democratic votes at the final election depends largely on whether agricultural conditions will have improved by next November and whether the Democrats name a man who appeals to the voters of Iowa as did the popular new senator, Daniel Steck.

Iowa is usually the storm center of Republican politics. The ousting of Mr. Brookhart starts a fight which will continue until next November and will give Mr. Coolidge a real test of strength.

BERGDOLL GETS
PRIVATE TRIALWill Hear Case of Draft Evader Charged With Se-
ducing Minor in Secret

Bulletin

Mosbach, Germany —(AP)— Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft evader, who went on trial here Wednesday charged with seduction and corrupting the morals of minors, was acquitted late today.

Mosbach, Germany —(AP)— This little town in Baden was crowded Wednesday with people who had come from all parts of the region to attend the trial of Grover C. Bergdoll, the American draft evader, who is under indictment for seduction and impairing the morals of minors. They apparently are doomed to disappointment, as the case will be heard behind closed doors before one judge and two jurors.

It is said that of the seven witnesses who will be produced by the state, one will be Leisel Schmidt, a 17-year-old girl of Heidelberg, whom Bergdoll is charged with having seduced three years ago. She was born in Cairo, Egypt, the child of German parents. She has been studying chemistry at Heidelberg university and is said to be extremely nervous.

Since Bergdoll escaped to Germany from the United States, he has been rather a spectacular person, driving about in his high powered motor car and spending money lavishly. Considerable sympathy for the draft evader is being shown, because a private detective of Philadelphia, named Robert P. Sachs, brought the charges against him. Sachs is now believed to be in the United States. Since he was arrested Bergdoll has been given the chance for plentiful recreation in the big prison grounds and has ordered his meals from restaurants on the outside. Recently it is declared he has been in a surly mood.

Reports that the state during the trial is desirous of preventing a scandalous sensation are causing much speculation among the villagers of Mosbach and those who have come here for the court proceedings.

BLAINE IS READY
WITH T. B. BILLLegislative Session Thursday
To Be Devoted to Business of Call

Madison —(AP)— Law makers of Wisconsin will meet Thursday to replenish the funds for tuberculosis testing of cattle, depleted by the emergency campaign to protect farmers who ship milk to the Chicago market.

When they convene in special session at 10 o'clock Thursday morning Governor Blaine will lay before them his proposal for an appropriation of $450,000 to pay indemnities for cattle condemned in the tuberculosis eradication work.

All other questions for possible consideration at a special session have been discarded, Governor Blaine having indicated that he regarded the bovine tuberculosis situation as the only emergency warranting attention at this time.

There was speculation on the eve of the session whether proposals to appropriate more or less than the $450,000 recommended by the governor would be in order as the constitution limits the legislation of a special session to the subject or subjects expressly stated in the call.

State Senator John C. Schumann of Watertown, an advocate of a larger appropriation for bovine tuberculosis eradication, has expressed himself as in favor of increasing the indemnity to a maximum of $45 for registered cattle to $50.

It has been reported unofficially that different groups of farmers will appear before the legislature with various recommendations some for discontinuance of the cattle testing and some for larger funds.

The appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926 was $50,000, and the appropriation for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, and annually for five years, is $750,000.

STATES SEEK RULING OVER
LAND GRANTWisconsin Does Not Wish to Relinquish Fishing Rights
on U. S. Reserve

La Crosse —(AP)— Wisconsin and Iowa joined Wednesday in seeking a ruling by Attorney General Sargent concerning the legality of the Federal government acquiring control of Wisconsin grant to the creation of the upper Mississippi wild life and fish refuge. An opinion will be sought as a result of a meeting here Tuesday night of Wisconsin, Iowa and Federal representatives when the question was raised. Wisconsin reserved fish licensing rights and right of access to the 20 mile stretch along the Mississippi river.

No action has been taken by the federal government to accept the Wisconsin lands with the reservations made by the state legislature Elmer S. Hall, Wisconsin state conservation commissioner stated.

Governor Hammill of Iowa, announced that Iowa will withhold final action upon its grant to the federal government pending the decision of the attorney general. The wild life refuge established by congress June 7, 1924, at the instigation of thezaak Walton League extends from Washington, Minn., to Rock Island, Ill., with the largest portion in Iowa and Wisconsin. Minnesota and Illinois granted the federal government control with no reservations. Governor Hammill said, and declined to participate in the meeting here.

Hammill called meeting

The meeting initiated by Governor Hammill, instructed W. T. Cox, Wisconsin state superintendent of the refuge, to ask the attorney general for an opinion.

Governor Hammill and other members of the Iowa delegation representing the executive council, the state board of conservation and including E. Albert, state game warden, contended that the wording of the congressional act, creating the refuge, made it impossible for the federal government to accept the Wisconsin land with the reservations imposed by the state legislature.

Fish licensing reserved by the Wisconsin state legislature in authorizing the game warden, the state was estimated by H. L. Merckens, secretary of the Iowa executive council, to yield $35,000 annually. The revenue in Iowa amounts to approximately $40,000 a year, Mr. Merckens said.

The Iowa legislature turned over 70,000 acres of land, subject to approval of the state executive council state board of conservation and the game warden. The state withheld from federal control the lands "subject to overflow and those used for agricultural purposes, state fish hatcheries or salvaging stations owned by the state within the boundaries of the refuge."

"We have reserved some rights and will see that the rights of the people of Iowa are protected fully," declared Clifford Niles, Animoso, Iowa member of the Iowa state conservation commission, Mr. Niles and others indicated they will reserve the rights for fish licenses if the federal government accepts the Wisconsin grant with the reservations.

Mr. Hall, chairman of the meeting stated the question of Wisconsin grant was in the hands of Governor Blaine. The state legislature made acquisition of the land subject to approval of the governor "on the advice of the conservation commissioner."

These intimations involved the question of whether or not General Butler attempted to "browbeat" his subordinates into submitting written statements supporting his charge. The question came up during the testimony of Captain George F. Stokes, adjutant of the fourth regiment of marines, who explained the alleged differences between his testimony and a statement bearing his signature by relating that the stand had been written in accordance with General Butler's instructions. He said he and other officers had been ordered to submit statements of what they observed of Col. Williams' condition. When the statements were submitted to General Butler, he testified they were handed back with the remark:

"You boys know what is wanted. Now go back and write new statements."

Kidnaped while on her way to school at Neenah Tuesday morning, Frances Webb, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, Neenah, was returned to her parents early Wednesday morning from St. Peters, near Fond du Lac, where she had been left by her abductor. Frances was in the hands of her kidnaper for more than 12 hours.

BAD TEETH ARE EVIDENCE IN COURT MARTIALSay Butler's Dental Troubles Led Him to Charge Williams With Drunkenness

Marine Base, San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—The dental troubles of Brig. General Snodgrass D. Butler have become the first line of defense in the court martial trial here of Colonel Alexander S. Williams of the Marines on the general's charge that Williams was drunk in a public place.

Weeks ago, just after he ordered the arrest of Colonel Williams as a result of the conviction growing out of a dinner party given by the colonel in General Butler's honor, the general retired to the naval hospital at Balboa Park to have several teeth extracted. On the day the court martial opened Monday, General Butler digressed in his description of the defendant's alleged drunkenness to relate how the catastrophic Coronado cocktail episode was preceded by the extraction of one of his teeth.

At Tuesday's session of the Colonel's trial the defense called two dental surgeons to the witness stand to tell how bad teeth can corrupt a man's whole outlook on life, how "dental lesions" can impair the functions of the organs far removed from the jaw bones of the toothache victim and how they often cause a man to see visions "or jump confusedly to erroneous conclusions."

Another avenue of defense may be explored by the colonel's counsel in accordance with intimations of defense attorneys Tuesday.

These intimations involved the question of whether or not General Butler attempted to "browbeat" his subordinates into submitting written statements supporting his charge. The question came up during the testimony of Captain George F. Stokes, adjutant of the fourth regiment of marines, who explained the alleged differences between his testimony and a statement bearing his signature by relating that the stand had been written in accordance with General Butler's instructions. He said he and other officers had been ordered to submit statements of what they observed of Col. Williams' condition. When the statements were submitted to General Butler, he testified they were handed back with the remark:

NEENAH CHILD

HER PARENTSAbductor Leaves Her at Farm Near Fond

DEMAND $3,000 RANSOM

Father Follows Instruction of Ransom Letter Mailed
Here

Frances Webb, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, 122 First-st., Neenah, is home with her parents again Wednesday none the worse for her experience with a kidnaper who induced her to enter his car while she was on her way to school Tuesday morning. The child was left by the abductor at the home of James Mantz at St. Peter, near Fond du Lac, about 10 o'clock Tuesday night and four hours later she was home with her parents.

An effort to secure the return of the child early Tuesday evening by paying $3,000 ransom demanded in a letter mailed to Mr. Webb from Appleton about noon Tuesday, failed. Instruction for delivering the money contained in the letter were followed but the abductor evidently was frightened off by the posse gathered in the hunt for the kidnaper.

GIRL TELLS STORY

According to the story told to the police by the party which went to Fond du Lac to get the girl after the family was notified that she had been found, a man drove to the Mantz home about 1 o'clock Tuesday night and left the child with the Mantz family saying he was taking his wife to a hospital. He thrust the child in the door and drove away into the night. The child told the Mantz family how she happened to be with the man and the family immediately got in touch with Neenah family. The Fond du Lac sheriff also was notified and he immediately went to St. Peter, and took the girl to the Fond du Lac jail where she was awaiting for the police party.

The girl was unable to tell where she had been. She said she had been riding in an automobile all day.

DEMANDS RANSOM

Police, aided by Winnebago-co sheriff deputies, Pinkerton detectives and posses worked all day following every clue without success. Shortly afternoon it was learned that a car and man answering the description of the alleged abductor was seen in Appleton and later in the afternoon Mr. Webb received a registered letter, postmarked at Appleton, demanding $2,000 ransom for release of the girl. The message instructed Mr. Webb to place the money $10 and $20 bills and give it to the conductor of a Neenah-Fond du Lac interurban car leaving Neenah at 7 o'clock and it would be picked up by a man who would return the car for that purpose.

Knowledge of the letter escaped, however, and the street car carrying the money was followed by a large number of automobiles and as a result no one called for the ransom. It was said that an automobile was seen to stop near the car tracks in Oshkosh, but it disappeared suddenly when the posse came in sight. The money was brought back by the conductor and returned to Mr. Webb.

INTERCEPTED PHONE

It was reported in Neenah that the plan for returning the child to the Webb home after the ransom was paid had been thwarted by Pinkerton detectives through an intercepted telephone message. The plan, it was

CAMERAMAN HAS IMPORTANT PART IN MOVIE STUDIO

Artistry of a Picture Depends Largely on the Skill of the Cameraman

Hollywood (AP)—From obscurity to places of prominence in the movie industry have come the men who grind away on cameras.

There was a time when George Schneiderman, of Fox Films, "shot" furniture painted on walls and participated in the pictures he was photographing. In those days, there were no Klieg lights and open sets, dependent on weather conditions, were used. Ingenuity consisted of making scratches on a length of film to depict rain.

Down through the years, however, the men behind the lenses have been pursuing a rigid technical education until today motion picture photography is considered a fine art by those of the industry.

To the realm of the movies, fantasy and many other phases requiring "trick" and artistic photographing have been admitted. New lighting effects, new inventions and new chemical developments also have been added to the camera man's dignity.

When Schneiderman starts on a production now he puts as much study and preparation on it as any other official person. When the "shooting" begins, he works ten and twelve hours a day. Completion of the photographing does not end his labor, because his services are needed until the film has been cut, assembled and ready for distribution.

Today the camera man sees his name in good display in introductory titles, receives an excellent salary and has the satisfaction of knowing that an expert in his profession always is in demand.

BOXERS SELDOM USE REAL NAME

Fighters Frequently Assume Names That Misrepresent
Their Nationality

Boston—(AP)—"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare in his Romeo and Juliet, and the retort about the rose with any other name would be as sweet suggests that fighter with any other name than that born at birth can fight just as hard.

How many of the fight fans of today remember the correct names of the boys of the squared ring? Of a list of 100 of the old timers, not one, from records, used the same name inside the ropes as he did on the streets.

They chose "handles" which in some cases were made to fit by dropping or changing a letter or two, or by changing the spelling to retain the same pronunciation. In the case of those the majority, however, discarded their own names and called under "monickers" which made Irishmen of Jews and Poles, but brought home the bacon just the same.

"K. O." Brown followed Freddie Cole's lead and bid farewell to Valentine Braun for the duration of his ring life. Jake Kilrain changed a letter and rearranged J. J. Kilian to give him the identity which became so widespread during his climb to fame.

But, not a few of these changed, and in their places came appellations which alleged youth or ability, some true and some false. Among the most popular seemed to be "Young". Fourteen of the hundred wore this title, with "K. O.s", Jacks, Jimmies, Mike and Steves following in close competition.

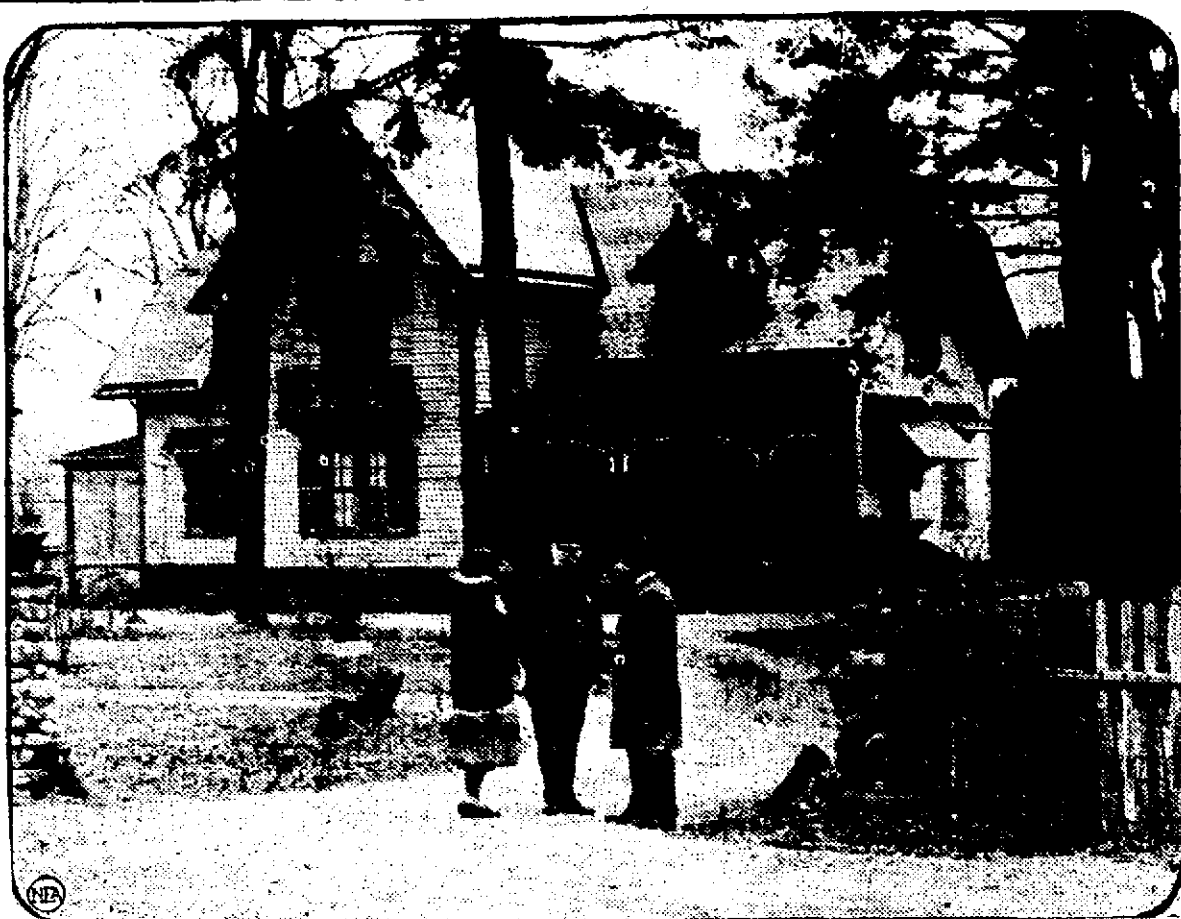

Descriptive titles also were and are popular, such as Sailor, One Round, Wildcat, Dixie Kid, Louisiana, Gunboat, Cyclone, Shang, Red John, Big Frank, Country, Yankee, Ginger, Curley, Irish, Swat, Corporal, Milwaukee, Chief, Miner, etc. The names alone were a book in themselves and suggested everything that could possibly be designated by a letter of the alphabet.

Some of the adopted and Christian names of the older boys were:

PUGH WILL SPEAK TO CHURCH LEADERS

Concrete is the aristocrat

Why Milwaukee Keeps on Laying Concrete Street Pavements

Year after year, Milwaukee continues to pave streets with portland cement concrete.

Last year, in city and suburbs, a total of 543,887 square yards of this firm, rigid, unyielding pavement was built.

Property owners like its pleasing light gray color. Motorists especially value its true, non-skid surface. Everyone knows that it requires almost no maintenance.

No wonder more than 1,000 cities and towns laid concrete streets in 1925.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

Tired Businessman Yawns As Golf Weather Approaches

An Easter bonnet may mean spring to some folks, but it is not a new hat that makes ordinarily conscientious men oil up the old golf clubs and sneak out to the links to see if the ground is firm enough to begin their annual debauchery, that makes the craving in your bones that you must stretch, but the limits of the human body prevent the completion of the successful operation. It's sunny skies, patches of grass, wet sidewalks, fishing tackle, golf clubs, tennis rackets, skipping ropes, roller skates, marbles and countless other reminders of spring that make men play hooky from business, boys slip away from school when the bell is ringing, and the poor hired hands who must keep on working, when the children and the boss play, look with longing eyes and yawning mouths toward the out-of-doors.

MILLS STUDYING MEANS TO CLEAN RIVERS OF WASTE

Many Are Purchasing Equipment to Recover Paper Fibres from Streams

At a recent meeting held in Milwaukee of representatives of Wisconsin pulp and paper mills, it was revealed that a number of mills have already ordered equipment and installations to recover their waste paper fibres which formerly escaped into adjacent rivers or lakes. It also developed that ten or 12 additional mills were making an intensive study of their conditions with the same end in view.

The mill men attended the meeting in Milwaukee at the call of State Sanitary Engineer W. C. Baker, of the state board of health, for the purpose of consulting with this state official on ways and means of further cleaning up the water ways of the state, wherever this was in the power of the mill concerned. The representatives of the industry were appointed at a former meeting of officials of the different mills for this specific purpose of working together with the state administration.

After detailed discussion of the progress already made and of the present situation in the state the representatives decided that the best future policy was to speed up this program of recovery of waste fibres and to urge its adoption by every mill in the state. They adopted this program in the form of a resolution which was immediately sent to all the mills in the state, so that cleaning up of the streams, wherever paper mills are a factor in their pollution can be uniformly carried out.

LIONS APPROVE DRY AMENDMENT

Attorney Catlin Addresses Club Against Repeal of Prohibition

That prohibition has been of great benefit to the United States and that the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment would be a grievous mistake was the sentiment expressed by members of the Appleton Lions club in an informal discussion of the wet and dry question at their luncheon Monday noon at the Conway hotel. The Lions felt that the argument frequently advanced that people would be more orderly and law abiding if they were allowed to have light wines and beers had little foundation in present day facts.

Attorney Mark Catlin, speaking against repeal or modification, pointed out that before the passage of the Volstead act there were three domes-

UNSEATING OF BROOKHART
The unseating of Smith W. Brookhart by the senate is a hard thing to figure out. The division of the vote adds to the perplexities. On the surface the vote would seem to indicate that the senate believed Brookhart was entitled to the seat. There are two reasons for this assumption. One is that nine Democrats voted against ousting Mr. Brookhart, although it meant the seating of a member of their party, conscience apparently being more to them than politics. The second is that a large majority of Republicans voted for Brookhart, nearly two to one, and in the list are many of the so-called Old Guard. Still, it is charged, and we have no doubt with merit, that the ousting of Mr. Brookhart is a political reprisal for his irregularity, and for holding the organization ticket in 1924. If the vote was the result of deliberate party conspiracy, then it follows that the sixteen Republicans who voted against Brookhart were selected as the goats. And yet, it is possible to account for votes of reactionaries in favor of Brookhart on the ground that to punish him might mean the defeat of Senator Cummins for re-election, as it is certain Brookhart will now run against the senior Iowa senator when he comes up for re-election next fall.

If Brookhart defeats Cummins, and we should say there is much likelihood that he will, then the net adjustment of the account will be a loss to the Republican party. To sacrifice Mr. Cummins, whose long service in the senate has made him a valuable and influential leader in order to obtain revenge on Mr. Brookhart's apostasy, would seem to be poor politics. The Republicans have not gained additional strength in the senate, because a Democrat is seated.

We think the country's opinion of the incident will be that Brookhart did not receive fair play, and that he was ousted for asserting his independence. If that is the case the party will not profit by its action either in Iowa or with the people at large. It would have been better to decide the controversy on its merits. Justice and right are generally the best rule of conduct even in politics, though it results in temporary embarrassment or loss. Mr. Cummins will now have a desperate battle for re-election with the odds probably against him, a situation which might have been avoided.

THE ITALIAN TROUBLEMAKER
Realizing that he is easily the most spectacular actor on the world's political stage, outclassing anything soviet Russia can today produce, Mussolini is indulging in fresh monkeyshines in Africa for the edification of Tripolitans and the worry of Europe. "Destiny," he said on landing, "pushes us toward this African coast. Nothing can halt destiny, still it is less inexorable than the will of the Italian people. You will understand me more for what I have left unsaid than for what I have said. Only this language is possible in fascist style." Again he says his visit is not to be interpreted as an administrative act, but as "a manifestation of the force which originates in Rome and which carries from Rome the symbols of its glorious triumph."
This is out-kaisering the kaiser with a vengeance. We in the United States may think it is only words, but to Europe it has an ominous significance. Mussolini is out to cause trouble. It may be true that he cannot get very far in his imperialistic ambitions, or that Italy on its own account is unable to wage war on a large scale, but it also is true that this hot-headed dictator might light a fire that not even Great Britain and France could put out. He is already conspiring to form a Latin bloc in Europe. He is accused of secret negotiations with bolshevik Russia. He is a potential evil of the first magnitude, in fact, he is the one great source of danger to Europe today.

Mussolini may not care for public opinion in the United States, but he is rapidly alienating the good will of Americans and creating a prejudice not merely against himself, but against Italy as well. This growing hostility is reflecting itself in the senate in the consideration of the Italian debt settlement. Senator McKellar in the debate this week denounces Mussolini as a "dictator bandit." His opposition to the debt settlement was almost entirely an attack on the Italian premier. American opinion is coming to view Mussolini as not only an evil to Europe, but to Italy as well. A little more brandishing of the sword and the mailed fist will serve to defeat the settlement, and if it is defeated Italy may not expect to receive the same generous terms in subsequent negotiations.

Still, there does not seem to be any way of halting Mussolini or of putting a curb on his bombast. A year ago his power seemed to be slipping, but today there is every indication that it has been augmented. The strength of his position has gone to his head. Perhaps, after all, that is the best way to bring him to an end, for the fool who cannot stand success invariably winds up in disaster. That is what happened to Mr. Hohenzollern, and it is what is almost certain to happen to Mussolini.

IF YOURS COMES BACK
A magazine man recently told something astonishing about the people in the country who are trying to write for the magazines. One of the magazines he represents, he said, receives about two hundred manuscripts a day. The editors think times are good when four of the manuscripts received during a whole month can be accepted. Think of it! Four out of six thousand!

Many people think they need a pull to get a manuscript accepted. They don't. The editors are hungry for more talent, so every manuscript gets a reading. There are the first readers and second readers. The first readers have a hard life. Out of that mass of very bad copy they must pick out whatever seems at all promising. The manuscripts they have passed then go to the second readers. These are more experienced persons. They reject many the first readers send them, and pass on the precious few that are left to the editor.

The reason why we see the same names time after time in the magazines appears to be because they are the only ones who can turn out the stuff. Of course, eight million people who are trying to break in will deny this. But there are the facts.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

It's sure a lot of trouble to be rising with the sun and hiking to the hen coop where the hens are on the run. But, when a man has chickens, it's the thing that must be done. He does it 'cause he has to not because he thinks it's fun.
They greet you with a cackle when you toss 'em lots of feed. Their corn and mash they tackle with a chicken's type of greed. You pour 'em pans of water every time you pass their way 'cause they tip the down pans over maybe twenty times a day.
Your neighbors sometimes wonder when your scurry's all about. You're nailing up the coop to keep the winter breezes out. You lug a bale of straw home and you spread it on the floor. You even stop to window step the edge of the door.
But, after all, it's worth it. If your plans work out correct, it pays to keep your chicks right if you get what you expect. Imagine what the thrill is, if a fellow's really able, to have, on every morning REAL fresh eggs upon the table.
A soft drink turneth away headaches
Just working to beat the heat doesn't always beat it.
Pigs are more fun than goldfish even if goldfish don't chew up your slippers.
The only relief from the weather is pretending you like it.

Life is but a dream, but there are all kinds of dreams.
Murders are great things. If you think you are handsome a good mirror will cheer you up.
We know a man so stingy he eats baramas to keep from wearing out the gold in his teeth.
We would have time to impress others if we didn't spend so much time impressing others.

JUST A DASH OF THYROID
One night in the course of the annual federal income tax agony I dreamed that all newspapers having a circulation in excess of 5,000 had to cut down to 15 per cent of their present size, which made it extremely difficult to get the murders and domestic scandals properly discussed. As for the fate of my section, under this ruling of the federal commissioner, it seemed that I had only to say "As I explained day before yesterday the thyroid gland..." and call it a day. Then in the following issue I would resume "The thyroid gland, as I endeavor to point out yesterday..." and devote the rest of the day to searching for Tony the I. W. or alternately beseeching and berating the balky filver.

Functional deficiency of the thyroid gland manifests itself in school children chiefly as simple goiter but in adults it more frequently manifests itself as hypothyroidism. Another name for this state, particularly when it is more pronounced than usual, is myxedema. Hypo means low. Edema means swelling of the tissues (dronsey) due to accumulation of watery fluid in them; myxedema means swelling of the tissues due to the accumulation of mucous fluid in them. The swelling of edema pits on pressure with the finger—that is, the depression disappears slowly as the water seeps back into the spot after the pressure is removed; the swelling of myxedema is puffy, harder and does not pit on pressure.
It requires the expert knowledge and skill of the physician to recognize even typical myxedematous swelling and when it comes to the diagnosis of the more moderate disturbances and changes which occur in hypothyroidism—indeed, a cascade of pathologies (or which the writer is not today mighty to say) that a sooty attempt at self diagnosis is rather a symptom of hypothyroidism, for in hypothyroidism the mental faculty is slow and dull.

As we begin to get into warmer water, let me remind the startling proportion of readers who insist on seeing more than I print in this column, that a deficiency of iodine in food, water or medicine is only one of several causes of a slowing down of the thyroid gland function, or hypothyroidism. Formerly, in fact, iodine shortage was scarcely recognized as a cause; the older medical authorities ascribed hypothyroidism to exhaustion of the thyroid gland by strains placed upon it in fighting such infections as typhoid fever, influenza, tuberculosis, diphtheria and other diseases in which the toxins or poisons of germs must be disposed of. Focal infection, such as the prolonged slight poisoning of the body by the toxins absorbed from neglected infections about the sinuses, teeth, tonsils, have probably contributed in many cases toward the development of hypothyroidism. Psycho or emotional strains from the trials and misfortunes of life are a severe tax upon the thyroid gland function and probably contribute toward hypothyroidism. Pregnancy or rather the habit of bearing children—in which some of our ancestors were inveterate—appears in the old time medical works as one of the factors of hypothyroidism, but most medical books are turned over by overworked authors and they just copy from older books in an automatic way for much of the material, or nowadays they have their assistants or secretaries do this for them, otherwise the medical authors would never in the world be able to keep up with the publishers' eagerness for new editions. I suppose I am queer and lonely in my views, as a dentist critic says, but when anyone tries to tell me that pregnancy or child bearing is a cause of disease or ill health I certainly hate to pay for the biyah blah.

SEEN, HEARD and IMAGINED
---that's all there is to life

NUTS GAZOUBIS EDITORIAL
Money has been tight of late but there has been lots of change in the weather.
After a balmy summer day Tuesday we actually had a little bit of snow Wednesday morning. At that rate we will probably get on old time Alaskan blizzard tonight and tomorrow have a 23-year heat record established.

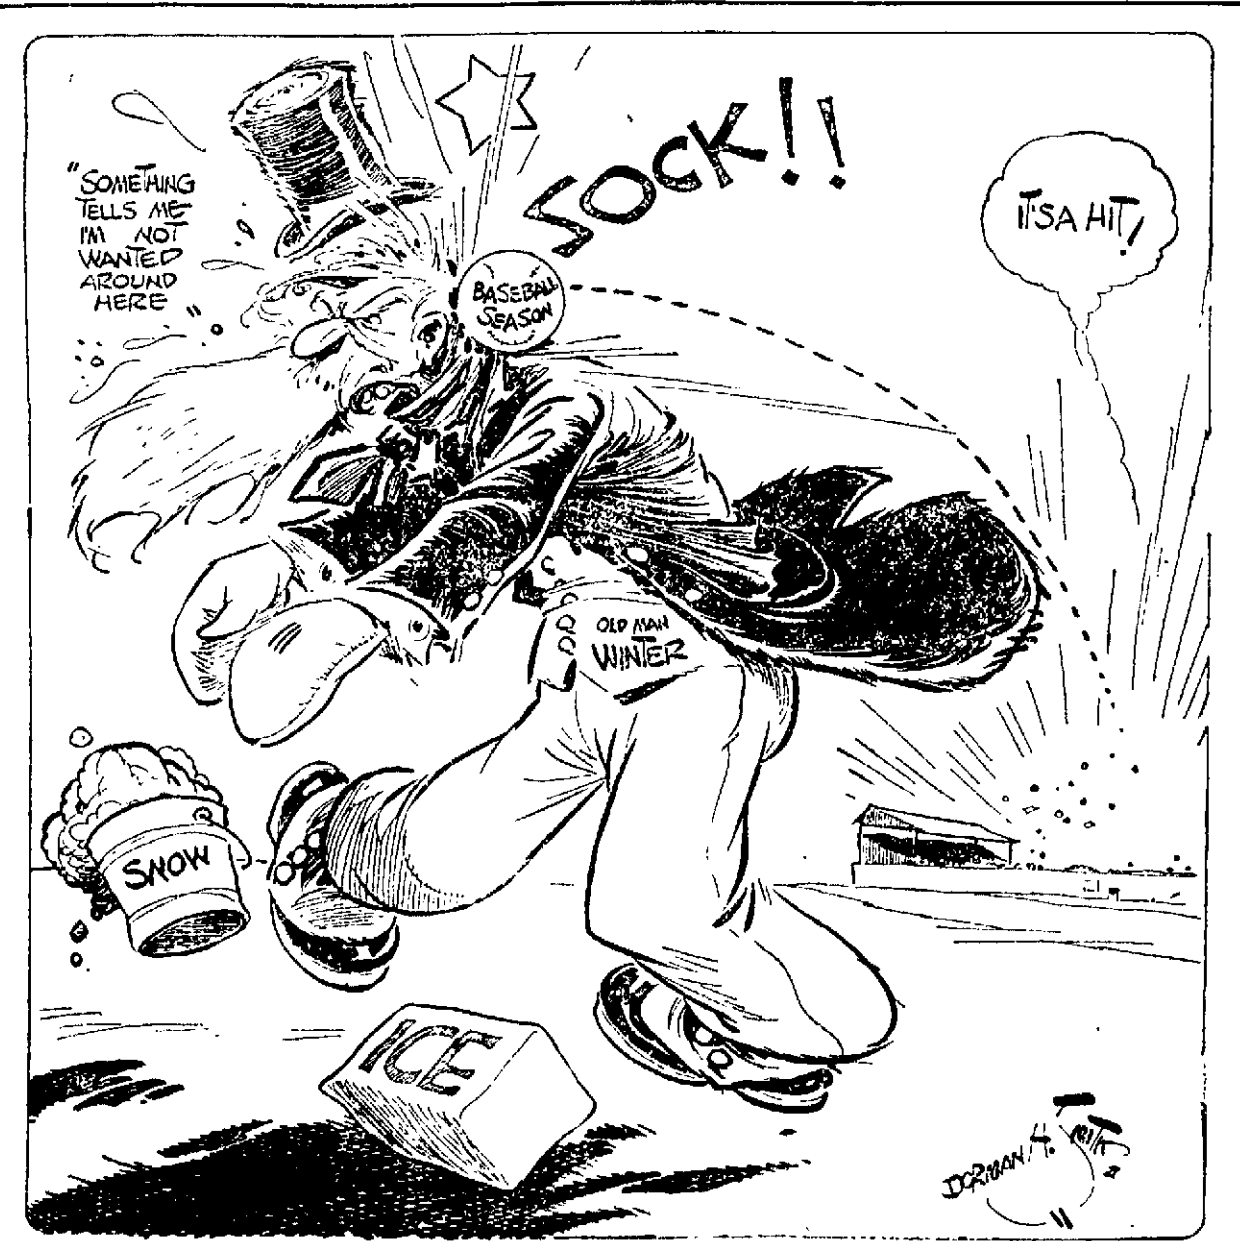

The trouble is we don't know what to expect. Two trains come together and they call it a wreck. Two children come together and they call it twins.
But all that is probably due to Senator Brookhart being unseated. He must have thought Steek was a lady and out of politeness got up and gave him his seat.
But the next question is, what effect will that have on the likker laws. Will we be able to get booze legally or will we have to keep on getting it illegally?

BE YOURSELF
Two artists were bragging about their ability to draw.
One exclaimed, "Why, I drew a picture of a hen so natural that when I threw it in the waste basket it laid there."
"That's nothing," replied the other bozo, "I painted a guy so true to life that they had to shave the portrait every day."

EVERYBODY STEP
D. K. of Appleton writes: "I have written a little poem which I wish to have you criticize. It runs as follows:
I have a girl by the name of Molly. She is honest, bright and Jolly. I met her one night while at a dance. It was a case of love at our first glance.
I asked her if she would dance with me. She did and filled my heart with glee. Then I asked her if I could see her home.
After she decided there to roam. She said I could and there we went. After the night was fully spent.
And we stayed at her home 'till all was blue.
Petting and drinking her father's lute brew.
Then I staggered, for home as the clock struck three.
When a crazy cop got his lamps on me.
And he picked me up and brought me to jail.
Where they put me, refusing all bail. At nine o'clock I went into court.
I found the judge a ding poor sport. He socked me twenty-five bones and roasts.
But I hadn't a cent so they sent me across.
I got ten days. And it served me right.
And never again will love at sight.
In criticizing the above poem I feel that if I did the job thoroughly that I would not have room for the criticism. But, as a whole, the poem is rotten. And besides that, Molly's old man must have made punk's home brew."

WOMEN'S STAND IN POLITICS IS STILL UNKNOWN
What Do They Want? Is Question Troubling Political Leaders

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—With congressional and state elections impending and with the quadrennial contest for the presidency next in order, there are no questions so much discussed in Washington by politicians of male persuasion as those pertaining to the political ideas, ideals, and aspirations of women.

It is, of course, well known that there is one organization of women that is primarily interested in the fight to secure equality before or in the law for women. It is equally well known that there is a group of women, or a group of their organizations, seeking many other things and opposing the equality idea. But where and for what do women as a sex stand, or do they stand as a sex?

Are they for protection, or do they favor a tariff for revenue only? Do they want the United States to join the League of Nations or participate in the World Court? Are they dry or wet? And when it comes to the question of prohibition, do they favor a modification of the Volstead Law?

What do women think about the immigration problem? Have they been aroused by the late fiasco at the port of New York against the barring of a woman alien on the grounds of moral turpitude?

How about Blue Laws? How do women want Sunday observed—with or without automobile drives, movies, theaters, golf, baseball, etc. What about taxation? Do women want Uncle Sam to get out of debt at the earliest possible date, with Federal taxes adjusted to that policy, or would they make a wide spread of the national debt and let future generations share the burdens that have grown out of events of the last decade?

What is the feminine viewpoint on national defense and the recognition that should be accorded aviation? And, by no means last or least important of the questions that are troubling men politicians, what do women think of the way men have been conducting governmental affairs and are they inclined to the opinion that they could do better—or could not do worse?

WOMEN SEEKING OFFICE

It is gradually dawning on citizens of the masculine persuasion that the time is at hand when they will no longer have a monopoly of office-holding. Women are cutting in on the erstwhile prerogative of the sterner sex at a rate that occasions serious consideration. They first went after positions in the party organizations and speedily attained recognition as vice-chairmen of national committees, national committeemen, state committeemen, and the like, and in no time at all they began asking for important elective positions, to say nothing of the good jobs that are passed out by executive favor.

Two women have been elected to the highest office in a state—that of governor. There are three women now serving in the National House of Representatives, and a woman has been United States senator from her State long enough to get her name on the official record. These are the high spots that women have hit politically, while they have attained no end of minor elective jobs ranging from municipal offices to secondary state positions. Women judges are

INDUSTRIES SEEK USELESS MINERAL

Zonolite, Found in Montana, Attracts Great Interest in Commercial World
From The Engineering and Mining Journal-Press.
Interest has been aroused by the recent commercial production of what has been termed Zonolite, from a large and heretofore useless deposit of micaceous material in north western Montana, near Libby.
Two miles from the Kootenai river and nine miles northwest of Libby is a moderately high mountain, almost frequently confronted by those who have occasions to greet interpreters and enforcers of the law, and those who get themselves prosecuted often find that it is a woman who is doing the prosecuting.

Most cities, it is also to be noted, have their women members of their police forces, so that it is quite possible for a malefactor to be arrested by a woman, prosecuted by a woman, assistant district attorney, tried before a jury composed wholly or in part by women, and sentenced a woman judge. Men might complain of that were it not for the fact that it has not been many years since women were on the outside looking in when it came to matters of that sort, and for the further fact that however loudly they might complain it would do them no good.
Nor is it to be forgotten that there are numerous political offices that are essentially "soft snaps" and that women can hold them just as efficiently as men, for the very good reason that no efficiency is required—except in subordinates who do all the work. In studying their political primers women have been quick to learn about such sinews, and it is observed that they are displaying no hesitation in going after them.

Q. How does a radio station convey its program to another station to be rebroadcast? C. E.
A. The Loomis Radio college says that present day broadcasting is actually a combination of radio and long distance telephone line transmission. Several high-powered broadcasting stations throughout the country are connected by land telephone line to one central station, for instance, WEAH, where a program is to be given. Then, when all is ready for the performance at WEAH to begin, the radio transmitting apparatus in each of the broadcasting stations is set into operation and each broadcasting station transmits the program which comes over the telephone line from WEAH.
Q. How many telephone poles are there to a mile? W. W. O.
A. The American Telephone and Telegraph company says that the average number of telephone poles per mile is 35.
Q. Does the Post Office department sanction the sale of merchandise by the endless chain system? E. V.
A. Post Office department says that endless chain enterprises have been held by the Post Office department for over a period of twenty years to be of a fraudulent nature. In 1925 a fraud order was issued against a company operating such an endless chain business. The prosecuted company secured a permanent injunction to restrain the fraud order, and at the present time the case is in the Court of appeals in the District of Columbia. As yet no date has been set for any hearing.
Q. How many stockings made of rayon are exported from this country? E. O. G.

Women Find

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

ON many important counts, women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal. It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Following the talk the membership of the class was divided into two teams and a volleyball game was played in the church gymnasium.

ROOM ADVISORS AID PUPILS IN HOLDING GRADES

Fewer Failures at Roosevelt School Since New System Was Inaugurated

School work by students of Roosevelt Junior high school during the last three or four months has been of a much higher quality than before and there have been fewer failures, because of adoption of home room advisor plan, which provides every student in the school with a faculty advisor, according to A. G. Oosterhaus, principal. Each student is assigned to a certain home room and the teacher in this room acts as the special advisor to the pupils thus assigned. The groups average about 25 to 30 pupils to each room.

At the opening of school in the morning the students assemble in their home rooms for roll call and to hear announcements. They are then dismissed to their first morning classes. An effort is made to assign each child to an advisor who has that child in at least one class.

Probably the most effective work done by the advisors is the raising of the general scholastic standing of the school and cutting down the number of failures. The students grades are compiled and reported every six weeks, there being three of these periods in each semester of the school year. After three weeks of each six weeks period has elapsed blanks are sent to each teacher on which she records the kind or work each pupil is doing and indicates if there is danger of a student lowering his grade at the end of the six weeks or whether there is danger of that student failing.

These blanks are then sent back to the school office which acts as a clearing house and from here each student blank is sent to the advisors. The advisor then consults with the pupil who is in danger of lowering his grade or failing and if necessary the parents also are consulted to determine how much studying the student does at home. As a rule the conference will suit in renewed effort on the part of the boy or girl and there will be no failure to report at the end of the six weeks.

METER FOREMAN ATTENDS SCHOOL

R. E. Burmeister Returns from Electric Session at University

R. E. Burmeister, meter shop foreman of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, has returned from Madison where he attended the sixth annual school for electric metermen in the electrical laboratories of the University of Wisconsin. The school is conducted annually by the university extension division and the college of engineering in cooperation with the state railroad commission and the Wisconsin Utilities association. This year 25 metermen from 45 Wisconsin cities were present as compared with 82 from 40 cities the previous year.

Mr. Burmeister said the school furnished him with many new ideas regarding the work in which he is engaged. He expects to conduct classes for employees in his department.

Lectures and instructions on virtually every phase of a meterman's duties were on the program. The basic idea put forward dealt with testing and measuring electrical currents, and each lecture and class took up some angle of that topic. Radio and first aid work were among the extra topics discussed. A get-together banquet was the social feature of the affair. Representatives of most of the large electrical equipment manufacturing companies explained the workings of their commodities.

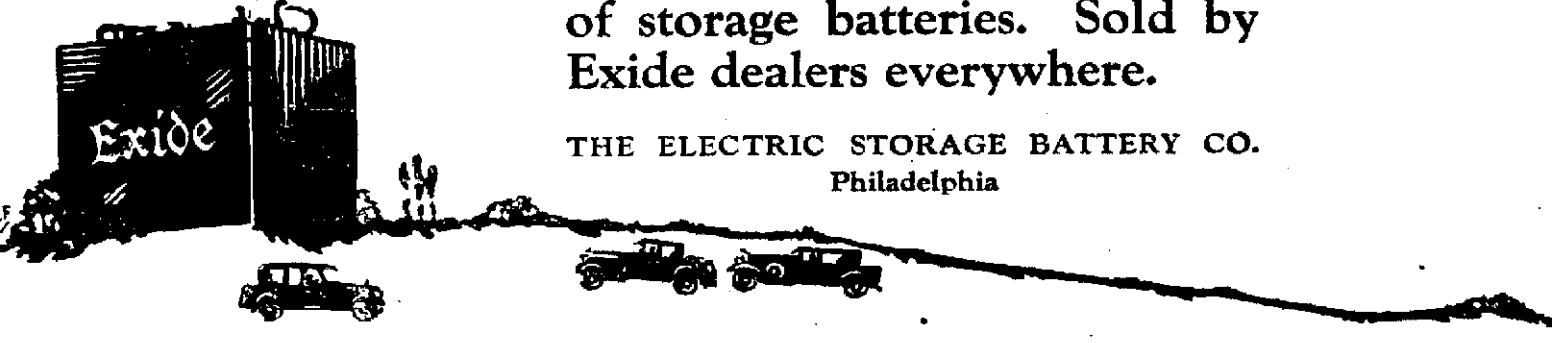

Lester Gayhardt, 16, route 2, Appleton, a wrenched ankle while trying to climb a dump wagon Monday. His feet slipped and he became entangled in the spokes of a rear wheel.

Excellence comes into its own

In the past twelve months a substantially greater percentage of purchasers of America's finest motor cars has come over to the Willys-Knight Great Six...

This superb automobile is forging ahead in popularity solely as a result of its outstanding performance record and the superior beauty and luxury it affords...

The advantages of the silent, super-smooth, super-efficient sleeve-valve engine—the only motor-car engine that actually improves with use—the supreme comfort of the magnificently-built Willys-Knight chassis and the richness of this car's equipment and appointments admit of but few competitors in the luxury-group of fine automobiles.

The Knight sleeve-valve engine is a patented engine. Its general use is prohibited by law. Other car manufacturers would gladly pay millions of dollars for the privilege of using it. But this is not now permitted, nor will it be until the Knight engine patents in America expire 7 years hence.

The New Willys Finance Plan means a smaller down payment, smaller monthly payments, and the lowest credit-cost in the industry.

Prices from $1750 to $2405, f.o.b. factory. We reserve the right to change prices and specifications without notice.

LOTZ CONTINUES STORE BUSINESS

Much of Merchandise Is Saved When Fire Razes Buildings

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Robert Lotz was able to continue business at Sheridan Monday although the entire building in which his store was located was destroyed by fire on Sunday. The remarkable part of the whole affair was the way help responded when the call went out. The origin of the blaze was in the attic of the dwelling of Mr. Lotz which was situated a few feet from the store. Realizing it was impossible to extinguish the fire before it would practically ruin the building, all contents were packed up and removed to safety. In the meantime about ten tons of feed stored in the building across the street was removed to a low room for the store goods, which was rapidly carried out of the burning building. Even shelving was removed.

An insurance of about $3,500 was carried upon the store and dwelling or about half the estimated loss. The store was the only one in the village. The stock of merchandise was estimated at $15,000, practically all of which was saved. Sheridan is a small village on highway 15 about five miles west of this city.

Although spring has been backward, local fishermen are catching fine strings of pike in the nearby lakes and rivers. Those fishing in the Wolf have returned with large size specimens of the finny tribe. Those not interested in catching pike are awaiting the opening of the trout or the white bass seasons. The Wolf and at Gilles and Fremont will be the mecca for white bass fishermen, while those seeking the wily trout will fish the smaller streams. Last season some record catches were recorded. The black bass season is still several weeks ahead.

Waupaca public schools resumed classes Monday after having been closed one week for spring vacation. About seven weeks remain of the present school year.

SMITH PLAYERS RETURN AFTER EXTENDED TRIP

Local Orchestra Completes Long Voyage Part Way Around World

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—George Smith and his orchestra have returned home after having made a trip part way around the world. The five piece orchestra consisted of its manager, George Smith, who acted as leader and played the saxophone and violin, Del Palmer, on the drums, and Joy Roe, on the banjo, all of New London. Garland Tice, of Marshfield, on the saxophone and clarinet, and William Jordan, of New Orleans, on the piano.

The trip was made from New London to Milwaukee and then to Seattle. At the latter city the organization embarked on the S. S. President Jefferson, with which they had a contract to furnish dance music.

From Seattle the trip continued to Vancouver, then to Victoria, from Victoria to Yokohama, Japan, from there to Kobe, and from there to Shanghai, China. From Shanghai the orchestra went to Hong Kong, and from Hong Kong to Manila, in the Philippine Islands, which was the end of the journey. The route was retraced from Manila to Seattle.

Three days at a time was the limit of the orchestra's leave of absence from the boat. At all other stops, two days were taken off, during which the orchestra played for English audiences.

The members of the orchestra state that they had little to do with the inhabitants of the foreign nations which they visited, except at the docks. As they were only seafarers for the first four days of the trip on the ocean, they all state that they enjoyed their trip to the utmost. They came back home loaded down with all varieties of trinkets of the orient, from opium pipes to kimono, which they purchased for remarkably cheap prices when they produced "good old American cash." The entire trip required about three months.

The orchestra, with its same personnel, has signed up with the Saxo booking circuit of Milwaukee. They will leave for that city on May 1, and will spend the summer in playing either at Milwaukee or Minneapolis.

STAGE AND SCREEN

MIX OUTDASHES GAY DON JUAN IN "LUCKY HORSE-SHOE"

Tom Mix appears in a new guise
in his latest release, "The Lucky Horseshoe," when he dreams he is Don Juan and sees himself dressed in the velvet and brocade of a Spanish Grandee and judge of a beauty contest. However, he loses none of the Mix spirit in the change of character, for he rides through the scenes following the awarding of the beauty prize and performs dare-devil feats in the rescue of the girl that are sure to thrill every Mix fan in the audience.

"The Lucky Horseshoe" is the story of a western ranch man who almost loses the girl he loves because he is too bashful to tell her he loves her before she leaves to go abroad and too much of a sportsman to say anything after she has returned to the ranch engaged to another man.

There are thrills galore intermixed with real comedy—and in the dream sequence, gorgeous costumes and settings. It is without a doubt one of the finest bits of acting Tom has done so far in his career and a picture no one will want to miss.

"The Lucky Horseshoe" will open at the New Bijou Theater beginning

Thursday for three days. In the cast are Billie Dove, Ann Pennington, J.

Forrest Macdonald and Malcolm Waite.

"PLEASURE BUYERS" STARS IRENE RICH

"The Pleasure Buyers," the Arthur Somers Roche mystery story, which originally ran in the Cosmopolitan Magazine in serial form, has been pictured by Warner Bros., and will begin a two days engagement of Thursday at the Elite theatre, starring Irene Rich.

With a gay gambling casino in Palm Beach as its locale, a mystery which remains unsolved until the last climax of the production, and a cast of brilliant players, this picture has been hailed by reviewers in other cities as one of the most dramatic and fascinating mysteries of the screen.

Clive Brook, who appeared in the title role of "The Woman Hater," plays the male lead opposite Mrs.
Rich; and the supporting cast includes Gayne Whitman, June Martine, Charles Conklin, Don Alvara-do, Edward Peil, Frank Campeau, Winter Hall, Frank Leigh and John Dillon.

"The Pleasure Buyers" are a gay social set who flock around the wealthy Gene Cassenas at the Palm Beach casino. He is engaged to marry pretty Helen Ripley, whose father breaks the engagement upon hearing

unsavory details of Cassenas's reputation. During the excitement, five people quarrel with Cassenas and threaten to kill him. When he is found murdered the following morning, it is almost impossible to fasten the guilt upon anyone until it is discovered that John Wisnell has told evidence in the Spanish gun with which Gene had presented her.

Chet Withey directed "The Pleasure Buyers" from the scenario of Hope Loring and Louis Lighton.

DANCERS GIVE GEOMETRICAL VERSION OF CHARLESTON

This geometrical version of the Charleston is done by Sonia Gluck and Felicia Sorel, New York dancers.

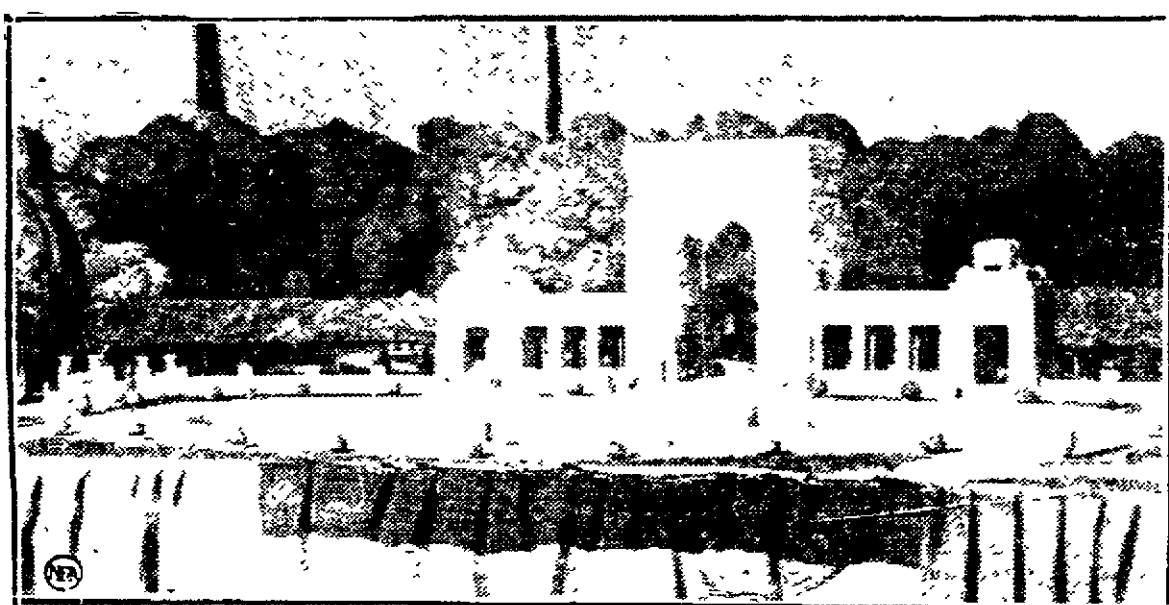

Laddie, 4-year-old Scotch coltie, wouldn't be Scotch if he didn't like to play golf. He is shown waiting for his turn on the links at the Haines Club, Fla., country club.

Dr. C. T. Wang (inset) is foreign minister of China, but he owns and operates a bar in Peking as a sideline. Recently he installed Chinese girls as bar-maids—an innovation in China. His place is very popular with the tourists.

Unveiling of this model of a memorial to the Lafayette Escadrille, France's famous band of World War fliers took place in Paris recently. The memorial is under construction at St. Cloud playground of the Napoleons.

Flapper fad No. 4786 as demonstrated by Miss Irene Swor, petite New Yorker. Wind a silk handkerchief around her neck and tie it in a bow.

Vincent Richards, blueblood of tennis, in action in the Florida championships at Palm Beach.

There's one old time town crier left in America—Julius Myers, town crier at San Antonio, Tex., who rides about the city daily crying his news. He was formerly a New York city newsboy moving to Texas years ago when his health failed. Advertisements that almost cover his horse provide a neat income.

Raymond Sweeney set an endurance record for accordion playing when he played without stopping for 25 hours at Okauchua, Minn. And he was on practicing for a regular contest.

Suzanne Lenglen, flower empancipated smiles over her victory in her recent Cannes Open tennis clash with Helen Wills.

Joseph's coat of many colors would look like a gunny sack in comparison with the new pajamas and lounging robes for men that are on display at the Illinois Clothiers' convention in Chicago. The pajamas have spots and billiard balls, the lounging robe—ah, it IS a lounging robe.

Mile J. Voulovitch, of Belgrade, champion girl tennis player of Yugoslavia, is going to France to try to humble both Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen.

Dorothy Boyer of Iola, Kas., never worries about dresses that button up the back. Her arms are so limber that she can attend to them herself. Photo shows her demonstrating the flexibility of her joints.

Mary Jones, Phila. or name, and she'll be able to. She's the champion Indian pony rider on the United National Park reservation. She uses a switch of from a 1-in. place of the leader in her sisters' use.

There are beauties galore in Palm Beach these days. But Mrs. Gene Gordon Culver has been acclaimed the most beautiful of them all.

Railway men throughout the country are watching with interest Henry Ford's experiment of electrifying his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton. Photo shows a stretch between Dearborn and Flat Rock, Mich., where electrification is complete. The big arches carrying the power wires are made of concrete, cast in two pieces, and Ford has built a special factory to make them. He will install them eventually all along the line.

Herbert Clark, actor, and Katherine Clark, secretary, never know of each other until they met in New York. They planned to marry. Then Clark learned from his father who lives in Pittsburgh that Katherine was his half-sister. "I never thought it necessary to tell either of them I had been married twice," the father explained.

MONEY FROM OIL DOES WONDERS FOR NAVAJOS

Wealth and Education Likely to Increase the Power as Well as Civilization of Indians

San Juan Indian Agency, Ariz., (AP)—Oil and education are leaving the stamp of their influence on the Navajo Indians.

Wealth from the one is enabling them to "buy" civilization, and education teaches desires. Soon, it is to be expected, the Navajos will be as affluent as the Osages in Oklahoma. The Indian agency has been kept busy providing schools for the brown-skinned Navajo youngsters. A. H. Kneale, superintendent of the reservation, reports the San Juan school capacity was doubled in the past year, and 650 children now are taught the ways of the white man. The San Juan schools teach only six grades. Three hundred and fifty higher students are scattered in Indian institutions throughout the west.

Most of the first graders have never been out of sight of their own "hogan." These are family dwelling places built by piling mud on conical frameworks of poles. They have never worn shoes nor hats, never eaten at a table, nor ever seen a stove, picture, newspaper or chair. Civilization and American patriotism as well as the English language and arithmetic are being taught them.

The children have never eaten what a civilized person would call a meal. Mr. Kneale said, "They have thrived on beef and horse meat, goats' milk and corn cakes served on the dirt floors of the hogans." They do not know what sanitation and hygiene is, and they have not seen the simplest tools that make civilized people comfortable. But they learn quickly. In addition to the three Rs we teach the girls to cook, sew and keep house and the boys carpentry, farming and the manual arts.

The Navajos have a natural aptitude for agriculture and stock raising. Far back in history they were not famous as warriors but as tillers of the soil. Today they are shepherds, shepherds of 170,000 individually owned sheep. The same Navajo was given by the Spaniards and means "people of large fields."

Mr. Kneale said the adults were quickly taking up the civilization the new generation takes home from school. Modern machinery is being used for farming and the "hogans" are being transformed into houses.

The oil which now is pouring wealth into the laps of the Navajos was discovered four years ago, but inaccessibility prevented rapid development. Thirty-six wells have since been drilled, most of them good producers. A small pipeline has been completed to Farmington, N. M. A larger pipeline is projected. The Navajos receive a royalty of twelve and one-half percent.

The Navajos, however, although one of the least civilized of the tribes, never has had to be supported by the government. The San Juan is one of six Navajo superintendencies, having a total population of 35,000. In addition to sheep, the Indians have cattle, goats and ponies. A few of the ponies are used as beasts of burden, but many are slaughtered for food, but the most have no use. They simply clutter up the landscape and eat the reservation grass.

Every Navajo woman is a weaver and a girl learns the art as soon as she is able to walk. Rugs valued at $100,000 are sold from the San Juan reservation yearly. Navajo pottery and baskets add to the income now being received by oil.

Miss Roma Bohn of the ladies' wear department of the Glenderson-Gage Co., left Wednesday for Racine to attend the funeral of an uncle.

EARLY MORNING THIEF FOUND IN BOSTON STORE

Officer Resch Arrests Clarence Saborowski on Burglary Charge

Menasha—In trying the doors of the business places on Tayco-st at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, Officer George Resch found the door of the main entrance of the Boston store unlocked and Clarence Saborowski, 40-1st-st. inside. He recognized him and immediately placed him under arrest. In taking him to the police station Saborowski broke away and made his escape. The officer fired a shot in the fugitive's direction and followed him the length of Water-st. finally losing track of him. Officer Alex Skolowski visited Saborowski's residence before he was up Wednesday morning and lodged him in the police station.

J. L. Blinder, owner of the store, said Wednesday morning that he closed the door Tuesday night when he left the store and was unable to explain how Saborowski entered the building unless he had a key of his own. Three dresses and several pairs of silk stockings were missing. The cash register, which contained several dollars in currency, was undisturbed. So far as was known Wednesday morning nothing else was missing.

Saborowski was arraigned before Justice Herman Luckenbach Wednesday morning. He pleaded not guilty and was bound over to the municipal court at Oshkosh. His bail was fixed at $1,000.

POLISH SOCIETIES HOLD JOINT MEETING

Menasha—The several Polish societies of Menasha held a joint meeting at Falcon hall Sunday afternoon for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for celebrating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the declaration of independence of the United States.

A tentative program was discussed which included a parade in the afternoon and banquet with prominent speakers in the evening. As all the Polish societies were not represented definite action on the program was taken. Some of the delegates were in favor of the evening program only. The societies plan to hold frequent joint meetings from now until the celebration.

ACTRESS DENIES INFERENCE OF LABOR LEADER

Miss Compton Resents Assumption That Chorus Girls Are Not Respectable

London—(AP)—When John Beckett, Laborite Member of Commons, referred to the bejeweled peacocks at the opening of Parliament as a vulgar, garish mob of underdressed women, and compared them to chorus girls, he started something in the theatrical world.

These days one may say almost anything he likes about the nobility and escape unscathed, but the land of Shakespeare's on-stage onslaughts on the stage. Of course, Mr. Beckett, who has achieved fame by wearing a huge sombrero, which has perhaps the widest brim in the country, was not attacking the stage. He was after the nobility. But indirectly he hit the stage hard enough to get a sharp reaction.

"It seems an amazing thing, and a wicked thing, that frequently when people have something particularly nasty to say about somebody, they compare their victim to theatrical people," declares Miss Fay Compton. "In this country the stage is a serious profession, and our choruses are filled with well-bred, highly educated girls who are working hard and honestly to make careers."

Miss Compton is one of the leading actresses in England and is one of the most beautiful women on the stage today. She is best known for her work in Shakespearean roles and other "straight drama."

Miss Compton also has served her time in musical comedy, and there is not much she does not know about chorus girls.

"Garish and vulgar," repeated Miss Compton. "Why, our chorus girls haven't the money to be garish and vulgar even if they were inclined that way, which they aren't. They are hardworking girls with small pay and none of them can't afford to dress better than I am dressed now."

Miss Compton glanced down deprecatingly at an exceedingly modest outfit of very ordinary material which she was wearing. She was costumed for the impersonation of a girl of the East End.

"The great majority of our chorus girls have no inclination to vulgarity for the simple reason that they come from good families and are well bred," continued Miss Compton.

"We take the stage very seriously. Ambitious girls make chorus merely a means to the end. They must start somewhere in the profession, and the chorus is the logical place for those intending to act in musical plays. The majority of our girls have no time to think about 'fine' clothes. They have no time to display them, even if they had them. They work from morning until midnight. When they are not on the stage, they are rehearsing and taking lessons in singing and dancing. They are a very earnest lot."

"So far as our choruses being vulgar and garish on the stage, that is equally untrue. Reputable producers don't stage vulgar and garish scenes in this country."

Appropos of the general discussion Miss Compton referred to the morals of the stage, although Mr. Beckett had made no reference to the moral aspect.

"Immorality is no more prevalent on the stage than it is in any other section of the community," she declared, and added with a little smile: "I believe you refer to it as moral turpitude in America."

"If you wish to learn just how high minded and straight our chorus girls are you should visit The Theatre Girl's Club which my mother runs in Soho," Miss Compton said. (Mrs. Edward Compton, the mother, also has been a noted actress. "There are hundreds of chorus girls there—most of them well-bred, and all of them upright, hardworking girls who are living on their incomes. And never a complaint because they are obliged by the rules to be in at eleven o'clock every night, or as soon after that as their theatrical engagements permit. Why anybody should refer to them in disparaging terms is beyond comprehension.")

Miss Compton is at present playing the title role in J. M. Barrie's Mary Rose at the Haymarket. Between shows she is acting for the Gaumont Film Company, but she does not like appearing on the films. She prefers the "legitimate" stage and her audience.

the YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is. The stub is traced to THOMAS FOGARTY, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy. Olga into a taxi and misunderstands. Olga tells police the stub and handkerchief might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Milwaukee. Later he is followed and attacked by two men, from one of whom he wrests a blackjack and escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary escaping, Church presses his courtship for Mary through her mother.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

Jimmy Rand awoke the next morning with a violent headache, the after effects of the previous night's encounter with his two mysterious shadowers. His ear was swollen; he ached in every muscle.

He lay in bed longer than usual, turning over in his mind the jumble of events that had crowded in on him during the last few days, trying to put some semblance of order to his chaotic thoughts.

The landlady knocked on his door and, when he opened it, handed him a letter.

"It just came, Mr. Rand." It was a special delivery. She hesitated a moment and then she said, "I sort of thought you might not be feeling well this morning, Mr. Rand, after last night, and I fixed some breakfast for you. I'll bring it right up."

"That's mighty kind of you, Mrs. King, I'm sure. You shouldn't have gone to all that trouble for me." He was a little uncomfortable in the face of this unexpected kindness.

He sat on the bed to open his letter. It was postmarked Grafton and was from Detective Mooney. Mrs. King found him with a puzzled frown on his face when she returned with the breakfast tray.

"I hope it's not bad news, Mr. Rand." She could not keep the curiosity out of her voice. This new roomer of hers, with his mysterious phone calls and strange encounters, was a puzzling proposition.

He smiled. "No, Mrs. King. It's from an old friend in Grafton. He's just telling me the news."

"Oh!" She thrust her hands in her apron pocket and left the room.

Between bits of buttered toast, Jimmy read the letter again:

"Dear Rand: I'm writing to tell you a new angle on this case of yours. It's the doggonedest case I was ever on and it's got me nearly batty. You remember that the day clerk in the Canfield Hotel said the man who registered for the room your father was found murdered in gave the name of H. A. Jones of New York. Well, the clerk shows up yesterday with word that he had seen this man Jones on the street the day before.

"He tried to follow him, but he lost him and came in to tell us about it. We've been looking for him ever since. Now I think you're on a wild goose chase, sticking around in Milwaukee. This fellow probably has a pretty good reason for hanging around Grafton, and that's where we'll find him if we do.

"You're letting this Maynard woman kid you. She's in on this somehow, and that story of being picked up by somebody who got her ticket stub and handkerchief sounds pretty thin. I'll bet she knows who this Jones guy is and she's covering up for him. She never thought the thing would be traced to her and she had time to think up a yarn when the police got her. My own private idea of this thing is that this guy Jones is operating some sort of blackmail gag and he uses a woman now and then to help him out. He answers the description of a man who's been doing that sort of thing in cities around this neck of the woods for some time.

"In the case of your father he ran up against the wrong man and he got scared and killed him. You see if I'm not right. You might think this is some kind of wild dream I've got, but I think I know what I'm talking about. At any rate, Mr. H. A. Jones isn't in Milwaukee and I think you're wasting your time. Why don't you let them bring the Maynard woman back here and come back yourself?"

"Best regards,

"MOONEY."

"Mooney, you're dead wrong," Jimmy said softly as he folded the letter. "If the man I'm looking for is in Grafton, how do you explain those warnings I'm getting to leave town? And how do you explain that affair last night? No, Mooney, if H. A. Jones, or whatever his name is, is in Grafton, then H. A. Jones isn't the man we want. He's right here in Milwaukee, and I need Olga Maynard to help me find him."

He finished his breakfast hurriedly and then sat down and wrote Mooney and answered, telling of the warnings and the attack of the night before.

"Of course," he wrote, "you mustn't think I'm ignoring the post-billy that H. A. Jones may be in Grafton. Keep on looking for him. But there's a lot going on here that I want to find the reason for."

The days that followed were uneventful. To Jimmy they were wholly unsatisfactory. Despite the efforts of Lieutenant O'Day and the best detectives at his command, the solution to the identity of Jimmy's assailants on that eventful night was still as far away, apparently, as ever.

And as for the man whom Olga Maynard mentioned as having got hold of the ticket stub and the handkerchief, if he did actually exist and was not a creation of Olga's imagination, he seemingly had succeeded in dropping completely out of sight.

With Olga, Jimmy frequented the cabarets and roamed at night the brightly lighted downtown streets of Milwaukee, hoping to catch a glimpse of him.

"I don't know if that's the way to look for him or not," Olga told him. "But I saw him downtown once and he seemed to know a lot about the restaurants and theaters and other night life. I don't know how else to go about it."

"It's the only way," Jimmy agreed, "unless I run into those men who followed me home that night." He had told her of the episode and she had been greatly alarmed to learn that he was in danger. "You should go back to Grafton," she told him. "You'll be hurt—maybe killed—if you stay here."

"How do you know?" he followed up quickly. "You talk as if you knew something about it."

She appeared hurt at the suspicion in his voice.

"I don't know why you ask me that—in that way," she answered. "What do the police think of it?—don't they think you're in danger? Why shouldn't I think the same thing without being accused of knowing something about it?"

"I beg your pardon," he said contritely. "I shouldn't have spoken that way. The fact is, though, I'm getting to be suspicious of everything and everybody." He didn't tell her that Mooney had written, telling him that the man known as H. A. Jones had been seen in Grafton.

"I—I don't blame you for being suspicious of me," she turned her eyes away from him as she spoke. "But I thought somehow that you believed me. No one else does, apparently. Whether you do or you don't you should go back to Grafton. I don't want to see you hurt."

He studied her a long time. "Don't you realize," he asked her finally, "that if I go back to Grafton you'll have to go there, too? The district attorney consented to letting you go free temporarily so you could help me find this man who told about. They'll be wanting to make an arrest soon. They think they have to to save their faces. Someone will have to stand trial pretty soon for this murder. If I go back now, it will be you."

Olga appeared to be thinking this over. She bit her lip nervously, and tears came to her eyes.

"I don't care," she said softly, turning to face him. "I don't care what they do to me. You go back. You've been kind to me—the only one who has, the only one who helped me. I don't want anything to happen to you."

He flushed uncomfortably, not so much at what she had said as at the way she had said it. It suddenly occurred to him that a remarkable change had come over the girl. That hardness of manner which had characterized her on the occasion of their first few meetings had gone. The old air of defiance—it had amounted at times almost to brazenness—also was missing.

"You've changed a lot since I first met you," he said hesitantly, and her eyes dropped before his inquiring look.

"Are you surprised?" she asked. "Hasn't—hasn't what has happened been enough to change me?"

"Troubles do solve us," he agreed. "I'm a different sort of person myself to what I was before this happened. But with you—I don't know—it's hard to understand." He was about to tell her that her very appearance had changed—that she was dressed differently—more quietly—and was using less rouge. But he thought better of it.

"The old life doesn't interest me any more," she said. "I don't know. Something inside of me has snapped since—"

She stopped.

"Since when, Olga?" It was the first time he had called her that.

"Too Tired to Move"

HOW often we hear a woman use this expression! She is in a weakened and run-down condition, not fit to do her work. Bravely she struggles on. She becomes nervous and discouraged.

Whether she lives in a luxurious apartment, a cozy bungalow or a crowded city flat, every woman can understand the handicap of poor health. The woman in moderate circumstances suffers more, of course, than her well-to-do friend because she cannot afford to hire help.

In spite of her efforts, her house begins to look neglected. Her children say, "Mother is so cross."

Eagerly she listens when a neighbor tells her of other women who found the road to health and happiness.

Health! That's the answer to so many of our problems. Without health, a woman cannot make her home the happy haven she dreams of.

Mrs. GOLDIE SHOUR of May View, Illinois, is one of the many women who have improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a run down condition which caused her much unhappiness.

Mrs. SHOUR says, "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." She declares that she is now in better health than ever before.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Oh, since this happened," she answered evasively. They parted then, and he went home, vaguely troubled.

The sun was shining brightly when he left his room the next morning, and the air was cold and bracing. He had taken stock of his finances the night before and it hadn't been encouraging.

"Less than $200 between me and starvation," he said ruefully. "If I don't get a job soon I'll be on my uppers." There was clothing to buy, and his evenings with Olga, although not expensive individually, were making serious inroads. He was still firmly determined not to ask his mother or Janet for help.

The cheerful aspect of the morning he regarded as a good omen, and he went quite hopefully about the task of job hunting. But it was just another morning of discouragement, and noon time found him weary and depressed.

He told himself, "If I don't find something to keep me busy in the day time—something to get my mind off myself—I'll go crazy."

He turned into Washington park and wandered absent-mindedly along the walks. The sun had taken the chill off the air. Office workers, out of their lunch hour, were sitting on the benches, gossiping and laughing.

"That's what I need," he muttered almost savagely, "something to make me laugh."

He plodded on, his hands thrust in his overcoat pockets, his head

Chrysler "70" Royal Sedan $1995, f. o. b. Detroit

All America Has Taken The Incomparable Chrysler To Its Heart

The Chrysler "70" sells itself every time it exhibits its dashing appearance on road or highway. The contrast between it and other cars is so marked that the desire to own one is bred then and there.

But that desire is as nothing compared to the delight induced later on. For the Chrysler is just as far beyond comparison in performance, roadability, ease of handling and durability as it is in looks.

That the American people have taken the Chrysler to their hearts is no surprise at all—it is a very natural thing.

They are almost extravagantly enthusiastic about the Chrysler because the Chrysler has shown them long-lived motoring delights beyond all comparison.

CITY CREWS GET READY AS WINTER GIVES UP GHOST

Replanking of Lawe-st Drawbridge One of First Major Activities

Although King Winter is relinquishing his hold with reluctance,
city construction work will be resumed within another week or so, according to city officials. Spring is finally making a strong bid for recognition, and although the days still are chilly and the frost is not leaving the ground as rapidly as it might, no
more snow is expected until next fall.
A good warm rain which may be expected most anytime, in the opinion of the officials, will hurry the process of frost removal, and as soon as that time arrives, plans for paving streets, constructing and repairing sidewalks and bridges, laying of watermain and sewers, etc., will be put in operation.

RESURFACE BRIDGE
One of the first projects to be undertaken will be the replanking of the
S. Lawe-st draw bridge, according to Robert M. Connelly, city engineer.
With the exception of this work, the bridge was strengthened and repaired last summer, and all that is needed to put it in good condition is the new surface. Work on the bridge probably be started next week and will be completed by the end of the month,
Mr. Connelly estimated. This work was included in the recommendation of the streets and bridges committee presented at the last council meeting, and the report was adopted by the council.

Another project which will come in for early consideration is the grading and cinderling of E. Circle-st between N. Drew and N. Mead-sts. Sewers were laid on E. Circle-st between the latter two mentioned streets last year and the residents are anxious to have the surface of the street put in a better condition.

START PAVING SOON
Paving of S. Cherry-st likewise will be commenced shortly. Benefits and damages have been assessed on property owners along this street, and the contract for the work has been let.

The street department is cleaning up the streets at present. Loads of dirt accumulate during winter and when the snow melts in the spring, dirt soon piles and is blown around
by traffic and wind.

The layer of ice along the curbing on College-ave was loosened with picks Monday and loaded into wagons and hauled away. The dirt along the curbing is being shoveled into piles to be taken away, and the flusher and sweeper is being run over the streets as a finishing process. Within a few

U. W. Extension Courses Boon To Reformatory Boys

The University of Wisconsin Extension division plays an important part in molding the lives of inmates of state penal institutions, according to Chester Allen, director of the extension department of this district. Students from every penal institution in this district are enrolled in courses either for the improvement of their general education or to secure knowledge of some particular trade. Mr. Allen said, and the number of registrations increases annually.

Thirty-one inmates of the Wisconsin reformatory at Green Bay are taking courses at the present time, according to E. H. Eklund, superintendent of the institution. All are youths with more than an average education, youths who would receive little or no benefit from the grade school work which is conducted at the reformatory.
The educational work there is under the direct charge of Officer B.
F. Oltman, and it was principally through his efforts that inmates have become interested in correspondence study, Mr. Allen stated.

TWO FINISH COURSES
Although correspondence work has been offered reformatory inmates only since the first of the year, two students already have completed courses.
They have shown marked ability and interest in the work and received good grades in all lessons, according to Mr.
Allen. One completed a course in electric meters, and when he is released he will have a certificate to show that he is a graduate of this particular study.

A second inmate has completed a course in store management. He will receive his certificate from the extension division in a few weeks and will be able to secure a good position when he leaves the Green Bay institution.

Other popular courses are: gasoline automobile, bookkeeping and accounting, show card writing, mathematics.

RELEASE TWO YOUTHS INTO PARENTS' CUSTODY

Hillary Salentine, 317 W. Winnebago-st, and Edward Van Ryzin, 420
W. Packard-st, both 18, pleaded guilty in municipal court Tuesday to maliciously destroying property in the C.
C. Moore billiard hall, 303 W. College-ave. Parents of the boys agreed to pay for the damage and the youths were released into their custody.

Police charge Salentine and Van Ryzin cut the green cloth covering of two pool tables and a billiard table six weeks ago. The boys left town immediately thereafter and were arrested when they returned two days ago.

more days the dirt which is now very much in evidence will be gone, according to Robert Hackworthy, street commissioner.

English, mechanical drawing, psychology, history and other high school subjects.

MEET INSTRUCTORS
Prisoners are given the same terms which apply to other students enrolled in the division, according to Mr. Allen. The costs, scholastic standards, etc., are the same for every one. The university, however, sends an instructor to the institution at regular intervals. He is allowed to interview each student inmate and help him with lessons. This is the only concession which is made, however.

One student inmate, a foreigner, is taking a course in English by means of the scholarship fund which is maintained there. He is one of the most industrious students in the reformatory.
Mr. Allen reported, and has completed three lessons since he enrolled about 12 days ago. This is an average of one lesson every four days, which is better than the record of the average extension student, according to officials. The average student prepares about one lesson every two weeks.

Time that would otherwise be wasted or spent in idle reading is thus being used to good advantage. Mr. Allen points out. The inmates not only are improving themselves and increasing their knowledge, but they are training their minds and learning to work, he said.

LETTER FROM SALLY AHERN-TON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
—CONTINUED

Mr. Prescott received a cable this morning which he doubtless relayed to you, Leslie, stating that your mother and Mr. Whitney would be here on the twentieth of this month. That is one week from today. I am afraid she will be disappointed not to find you awaiting her at the dock.

However, I know your mother well enough to know that when Ruth's need is explained to her, she will wait until you can come back to her. Leslie, every single day I see your husband. I more and more realize how boyish he is! As he read me the cablegram from your mother he said, "Gee! I wish that Leslie would come home! Seems that I never wanted her so much in my life!"

Don't you worry, Leske dear, he doesn't really need you. He just likes to think that he must have any social duties at all. With both your mother and Paula here, he knows he will have many calls upon him. Besides, you know that Mrs. Prescott, senior, is like the poor and always with us, and to tell the truth, I think she is quite as welcome as the poor to most of us.

I read a little note in the paper yesterday, saying that your mother and Karl Whitney were expected very soon and there was a sly reference to the fact that all the girls in society were haunting the importers just at present because they knew that the most eligible young barbeque in all Pittsburgh would probably be on the market again.

I wonder what a man like Karl Whitney does when he sees an eager hanker in the eyes of every young woman to whom he is introduced? I must bore him almost to death. I have a friend who is in the importing business here, and he tells me he hasn't sold so many gorgeous gowns in months as since it was published that Karl Whitney was coming back to his old home in very much better health and spirits than when he went away.

There! I'm going to close before I get cynical and quote what George Bernard Shaw has said, that a woman's business in life is to marry."

"I'll write you again as soon as your mother returns, my dear, and I'll keep you posted and more than all the rest, I aim to keep Mr. Prescott so busy with his work that he will have no time to get lonely."

He called me an old shrew driver yesterday because I wouldn't let him go to the baseball game. I told him that I did not intend to stay at the office after working hours, and there was certain duty that said he could supply me in a big bill that we were preparing for the government."

Now, dear, I'm going to "let" your letter. I have that kind of correspondence. I hope you'll write me when you feel like doing so, but whether I get your letters or not, you must know that I think of you every day and love you always."

Yours truly,
SALLY AHERN-
TON

P.S. — Day letter from Leslie Prescott to John Alden Prescott.

"Oh, shouldn't I, though?" cried Tatters. "I'd love it. I won't have to scratch so much then!"

Well, my dear, order all the dirt Tatters was really a beautiful dog. A good lather of "Ponyland Special" soap made his coat look like silk.

"I heard Mrs. Greenway say she would like another dog," said Nick. "Don't be getting old, and you look so nice and kind. I think she would take you."

And Mrs. Greenway did take him. The minute she saw him and Tatters, he was there yet. He is very happy. You see, the ladies are great friends of the dogs' too!

APPLETON; NEENAH MAY CLASH IN INDOOR MEET

ORANGE SQUAD IS INVITED BY NEENAH LEGION

Contests Will Feature Legion Sport Show on April 30, Girls Events Also

Appleton and Neenah high schools, old rivals on the basketball court, will clash in another form of athletics on Friday evening, April 30, if plans of the Orange Athletic authorities and members of the Neenah post of the American Legion are successfully completed. The Neenah legion has invited the Orange team to meet the Neenah team in an indoor meet at 8 A. Cook armory on that date as the feature of the Twin City American Legion athletic carnival held each year. For the last few years, Neenah and Menasha have been the rivals in the meet but this year the Orange team were invited to take the place of Appleton.

The meet will consist of a number of indoor athletic events such as short runs, jumps and eight contests as well as rope climbing and possibly a tug-of-war between six-man teams from each school. This event still is undecided. A number of competitive events between girls of the two schools are on the program, according to the letter received by Coach Jim McLaughlin.

The feature of the athletic carnival is the valley title tug-of-war between Appleton and Neenah. The Orange team have been going through a hard schedule of indoor work this week and hope to take to the outdoor work by Friday. However, the thought of having to send his men the length of the city to Whiting field, then forcing them to return to the school for practice, is bothering Coach McLaughlin. Practice either will have to be short and snappy, doing little real good, or the boys probably will be unable to reach their homes until after an hour after the supper period.

At present little in the way of strong material is out, the best being ineligible and prospects for a strong team to enter the valley meet here in May are weak. Some of the boys should look fair in a meet. Material from last year's squad has either graduated or is ineligible or has not shown any inclination to come out yet.

Neenah and Appleton always have been the greatest of rivals and no matter what the strength of the two teams, a battle of the valley title is assured. The two schools stand for the highest type of clean athletics and a clean, friendly rivalry is assured. A large group of Appleton rooters probably will attend the event at Neenah.

Other 200 marks went to L. Keller of the winners with a 202. The girls lost the opener by just 7 pins and then came back to take the second tilt by 15 pins to take an 8 pin lead. "SOFT SPOTS" FAIL TO BOTHER GOLFERS

In spite of ground which still is soft and small patches of snow on shady parts of the courses, Appleton golf "bugs" have started their pilgrimages to the grounds of the two local courses, the Rattle des Motes and the Riverview clubs. The golfers intend to get plenty of early exercise in spite of the fact that some of the low fairways are moist. A week more of the present weather, however, should put the courses in fine shape, he said. At the Rattle des Motes club, golfers are using the practice course daily.

With Milky Williams, star of the 1925 Kimberly-Clark Athletics, winners of five titles during the season in the leading role, the Kimberly club of five, pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the T. M. C. A. Industrial college league Tuesday evening, whipping the crack Bank squad, 23-14, in a postponed game. The Bankers had given the leading Galpins one of their two defeats last week and with two former Appleton high stars in the lineup were considered the class of the league. The surprise, however, was that the Williams and Co., played a great game. The win dropped the Bankers from a tie for fourth to fifth place and gave Neenah Kimberly-Clark five a clear claim to the title.

With Milky dropping three fingers and a free throw in the first tilt, the score stood 11-8 for the Kimberly.

The basketball game between the Citizens National Bank squad of Appleton and the Kimberly club team of Kimberly which was won by the K-C boys Tuesday in the "Y" cage loop, by a score of 23-14, was played under protest, according to Herb Voeckel, Bank manager. Kimberly used Williams, star center of the Kimberly-Clark Athletics, who won five titles this year, and he practically won the game for them. A protest was registered before the teams took the floor. Williams also is classed as a pro catcher, according to the district pro meet against crews like Lena, Kewanee and the Green Bay Columbus club.

men at the half, in the final periods the club crew stepped out even better to take a 12-6 score.

Williams was the star of the game with three long markers and a three free tries and he was aided by Hopkins and Busch, each of whom got two fingers and a free try. Every man on the winning squad hit the ring from the field. Al Cookson and Carl Voeckel, old Orange stars, lead the Bankers in the score column. Voeckel being the outstanding man with three baskets and a great defensive game. Schwartz, star bank center, was held to one finger and Moore added another.

The Bankers can regain fourth place and the Neenah K-C crew can hold the place when the loop ends as they play a postponed game. Schwartz and the Bank boys play the Fox River men. This game is expected to be one of the best of the loop season, but with the defeat of the Bankers Tuesday night, the Bankers are given a slight edge.

MANITOWOC-ENTERS VALLEY NET MEET

Manitowoc—Manitowoc high school has signed its intention to enter into the Fox River Valley conference tennis tournament, sponsored by Lawrence college and held at Appleton on May 15. The school will run an elimination contest sometime before the date of the conference and will proclaim one man the school champion, he will represent the school at Appleton in the Valley tournament.

SPRINGFIELD, SCRANTON BOYS WIN TRIP TO OPENER

Rogers Hornsby and Alfred Dornheim, Walter Johnson and Edwin Marshall

Walter Johnson of the Washington Americans and Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals are Young America's baseball heroes. The famous pitcher and the equally famous second baseman and manager have been thusly crowned following the great National Baseball Player Contest conducted by NEA Service, Inc., of Cleveland, O., and client papers throughout the country.

The winning essays were written by Edwin Marshall, 10 years old, of Springfield, Ill., who championed Johnson, and Alfred Dornheim, 14, of Scranton, Pa., who named Hornsby. Each made the trip to see his favorite in action opening day, Edwin going from the west to Washington and Alfred from the east to St. Louis.

Johnson virtually made a runaway race of it in the American League. He was the outstanding nominee in nearly every section. His long years of service, his faithfulness, modesty, sterling character and natural playing ability made him the big favorite with the youngsters.

The Georgian gathered considerably more votes than Babe Ruth, Eddie Collins, George Sisler, Tris Speaker and other recognized idols of youth football, but was far behind Sir Walter in the final count.

Stanley Harris, came in for quite a hand, as did Rogers Peckinpaugh and Al Simmons of the Athletics. Many others got into the summary but their votes were few and far between.

In the National League a somewhat flint was waged. Rogers Hornsby stepped away to a nice lead, only to fall behind the two Pirate stars, Max Carey and Hazen Cuyler, when the Pittsburgh vote came in.

The southwest and far west were strong for the Cardinals' boss, however, and, with their figures added to his earlier total, Hornsby jumped ahead again for good.

Hornsby carried nearly every section outside the Pittsburgh district, where the vote naturally leaned to Carey, Cuyler and other Pittsburgh celebrities. In other words, the Hornsby entry went virtually solid except for one city. Even in Pittsburgh he polled 653 votes.

Max Carey ran next to Rogers, with Cuyler third and Frankie Frisch of the Giants fourth. Jazzy Vesper, Brooklyn; Ed Roush, Cincinnati; Alexander, Cubs; and Traylor and Wright of the Pirates also had a large following.

The contest, obviously, was a tremendous success. All sections and a large representation making it truly a national election. Interest was exceptionally keen right from the start. The youngsters took to the unique pre-season game in a manner that far exceeded all expectations.

Many papers enhanced the value and worth of the contest locally by offering baseball tickets, bats, gloves and various other gifts to winners in their territory that failed to cop a national prize.

Empire Billy Evans and his committee had a huge task going over the thousands of essays. It took several days to sort out the winning letters. Evans made the final decisions.

Prize winners letters will be published Thursday.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

Be sure that you are set properly before attempting to hit the ball. The feet play an important part in the address of the ball, in the back swing, the top of the swing and at the finish. Some pros have gone so far as to say that the action of the feet is everything. This is not all, of course, but without the proper foot movement there is no chance for the beginner to get very far in learning the game.

Foot action is not only essential in golf, but in every line of sport that I know of. I used to play baseball in my youth and reached the point where I had to decide between professional ball and golf. I learned the game thoroughly. My specialty was pitching and I soon discovered that my feet had almost as much to do with hurling a ball as my hands. At that I found that there was everything in the way I handled my feet. The fielders find this true, too. The first thing a short stop or a baseman is taught is how to stand to receive the ball.

Hoff; Vaulting Viking, Shines In Many Things

BY LEON M. SILVER
NEA Service Writer

New York—This Charley Hoff, the young champion, pole-vaulter—the "super-athlete," they're calling him—this Charley Hoff, the writer and cartoonist, the sculptor, the boxer, the philosopher, the "charismatic," the son-in-law of one of Norway's foremost industrial magnates—this Charley Hoff, the polished gentleman, well dressed as the Prince of Wales—

There's a healthy bit in this Charley Hoff for the stock of "Nordic supremacy." New York is about to conclude, and then after his briefest of acquaintanceship with his little six feet and half an inch, his agile 147 pounds and his 23 Norwegian summers.

If Mayor Jimmy Walker fades in to second place in New York's percentage column of personal popularity some time soon, Charley Hoff will be the answer.

It's passing strange, too, in a way, that when Charley Hoff landed on American shores some months back, he was done up in a package of temptation as artistic as that of a prima donna.

"Use your brain, not your brawn, if you want to break athletic records," he advises.

It's not to Hoff when he soars over a pole vaulting bar at within whisking distance of 14 feet—blitzing the pole-vaulter record to the stars—and admiring sport scribbles it.

It's art when he does almost 24 feet in a running broad jump. It's art when he flashes away at

BADGER RUNNERS DRAW 15TH PLACE IN 4-MILE

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—Followers of collegiate track sports were speculating Wednesday on the chances of their favorite teams to win in the annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival as they glanced over the positions awarded at the drawings.

The carnival will be held at Franklin field on April 23 and 24. Boston College drew the pole in the two mile race.

"Cornell has the pole in the one mile championship race which is believed by some will result in a new relay record and probably a world's record. Chicago will have eighth place.

In the four mile race Michigan drew thirteenth place and Wisconsin fifteenth.

FORMER FIGHTERS TO TRY REFEREE GAME

Joe Rivers and Billy Papke, former pugilists of note, have taken out licenses in California to act as boxing referees. Rivers was a famous lightweight, while Papke once ruled the middleweight division. Papke whipped Stanley Ketchel for the title in 1908, only to have Ketchel win it back a couple of months or so later.

Notables—letters which pronounced Hoff "the greatest athlete and finest fellow" Doug ever had met.

But he wants to finish his book on philosophy before he goes.

"And I want to see your 'Sing Sing,'" says Charley. "I'm interested in learning just how the convicts are treated there."

ATTEMPT TO SET DATES FOR BLUE, BAY MAT MATCHES

Green Bay "Y" Squads Want Lawrence Men at Bay on April 23-24, Here April 30-31

Tentative dates for a home and home series of wrestling matches between Lawrence college and Green Bay Y. M. C. A. grapplers have been offered the Blue athletic department by the Bay association. The Baymen desire to wrestle here on either Friday or Saturday evening, April 23 or 24, and they want the Blues as their guests on either Friday or Saturday evening, April 30 or 31. At present none of the dates have been accepted by the Blues, but two probably will be unless some conflicting event interferes.

The Blue squad has some good material and outside of practice sessions and the all-campus meet it has had no chance to show off. The Bay meets would be the only outside affairs for the local matmen. That the competition will be strong is shown by reports from the Bay. Carl Zoll, former Wisconsin heavyweight champion in handling the Bay hopes and he has been working them hard for weeks. He has plenty of promising material and Bay newspapers claim his crew can hold its own with any in the state.

The squads will meet in only four classes, the 125, 150, 175 and unlimited classes. Probable representatives of the Blues in these classes include Kneip, Purvis and Schweiger, Appleton; Nobles, Wisconsin Rapids, assistant coach of the squad, and Council, Marshfield, 1926 grid captain.

APPLETON GIRLS LOSE 2 GAMES, WIN MATCH

One big game in which the winners chalked up 910 pins, enabled the Koester Orange Squeeze girls bowling team to win a match from the Thrift Electric Washers of Oshkosh, another women's squad, Sunday on the Oshkosh Elk alleys, in spite of the loss of two out of three games. The local girls lost two games by narrow margins and won the other by over 100 pins.

S. Roudsush of the Appleton five was the high bowler of the fray with a 203 game and a 568 series. Her 203 mark was the only double century score of the match. Mrs. Ginal lead the Oshkosh keggers with a 193 game and 549 series.

The local women lost the first game by 7 pins, but took the second by the wide margin of 108. Then the Sawdust city squad finished off the final tilt with a 50 pin win, but it was too late to count.

Kimberly—Schwank's troopers lost out in a pitchers duel in the Kimberly Boys Indoor League when Bulls Montanas drove their way to a victory and jumped out of last place position to a tie for second. LaBerge Posters are at the top with three wins and two losses. However, they have played one or less game than the second place teams, and providing they lose, there will be another triple tie for first place position. The Red Eyes now are the league trailers, just one game from first place position. LaBerge Posters and the Red Eyes cancelled their game, and it will be played in the near future.

NEW H. S. DEBATE LEAGUE WILL BE FORMED IN 1926

University of Wisconsin Sponsors New Association for Forensics

A debating league will be sponsored next year by the Wisconsin high school forensics association organized last November at the meeting of the Wisconsin Teachers' association, and more than 50 per cent of the high schools in the state will participate in the contests being promoted by the association this spring according to an announcement made by Miss Almerie Scott of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin who is secretary of the association.

The late organization of the association prevented the promotion of debating work last fall and was carried on as in previous years under the auspices of Lawrence college. Whether the Lawrence league will be continued another year as well as the university sponsored league has not been decided, according to Miss Scott.

Forbes, debate coach at Lawrence college. If the Lawrence league is continued, the choice would be left to the high schools whether they would enter the one association or the other, he said.

Two hundred and twenty schools already are entered in the association which is promoting the state wide competition in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, reading and declamation, exceeding by 100 the largest number ever entered in previous state contests under the old lyceum organization, it was said. Entries will close April 15, and district contests will be held in each of the nine divisions before May 15. The state contests will be held at the University of Wisconsin May 27 to 29.

For purposes of elimination, the state has been divided into nine districts with the manager of each serving as a member of the board of control of the state institution. Places for the district meetings have not yet been decided. Outagamie-co is in the Oshkosh district with Forest, Florence, Langlade, Oconto, Marinette, Shawano, Door, Kewaunee, Brown, Winnebago, Calumet, Green Lake and Fond du Lac.

The state will be organized for debating under the league plan with the state divided into northern, central and southern sections. The schools will be grouped in triangles, each school leading three debates, and the nine leading schools in each section will be picked this way. The nine schools will be divided into three triangles for elimination contests, and the winners will then participate in the final intersection debate. The subject for next year will be decided at the annual meeting of the forensics association to be held in Madison in conjunction with the state oratorical contests.

Organization of leagues by at least four schools for the oratorical contests is recommended by the association, with the winners participating in the district contests.

To represent a school in any contest promoted by the association, a pupil must be under 20 years of age, and in the high school grades. A passing mark in school is necessary.

Orations may be original or selected but the association urges that the students speak on current day topics. Extemporaneous topics will be selected one hour before the contests from a selected list of magazines. Extemporaneous readings will be the topics chosen from twenty books.

Professional coaches are barred, and equal representation at least, on the debating teams is required, the association stating in its constitution that "not more than fifty per cent of the debaters of any school shall be girls."
